Dawn Unfolds Libyan Horror

AL MARJ, Libya (Delayed) (AP)—Dawn broke Friday to reveal the full horror of the earthquake which struck this Eastern Libyan city of 11,000 Thursday night.

Huddled together, dazed and injured, residents of the city saw in the early light the full extent of the damage done by the quake which struck suddenly at 7:15 p.m. Thursday.

Most of City Rubble

Nearly 70 per cent of the city was in rubble. Stone and mud houses collapsed instantly. Concrete buildings were left twisted by the first quake, which was followed by tremors.

In 15 seconds, the city, located in a fertile valley 50 miles northeast of Benghazi, was in ruins.

More than 250 dead and 500 injured were counted by Friday morning. The toll was expected to mount as rescuers continued the grim search for victims.

Throughout the night U.S. Air Force rescue teams from Wheelus Air Base, Tripoli, British Army units from Benghazi, and Libyan Army and civilian medical teams worked in darkness to help as many of the stricken as they could find.

Wail in Anguish

Paramedics of the 58th U.S. Air Rescue Squadron based at Wheelus, the first Air Force emergency help to get here, found families clinging together in the rubble of their homes or beginning to dig out what possessions they could find in the ruins.

Some of the victims, searching the streets for members of their families, walked aimlessly, wailing in anguish. Some wandered in shock, waving their arms and moaning, oblivious to help offered them.

Work had already begun Friday morning to dig graves for the dead south of the city, which is bordered by flooded fields and mired by rain-drenched red clay streets.

Paramedics of the 58th Squadron were followed by more medics and the 7272nd Air Base Unit at Wheelus.

Led by Capt. Barry N. Shaklin, of Hillside, N.J., the men of the 58th administered first aid and drugs to the injured, searched the ruins for victims and helped in the evacuation of injured to a nearby Libyan Army hospital.

Airlift operations continued throughout the night and Friday from Wheelus, about 250 miles east of Benghazi. Emergency rations and other needed equipment were transported to Benghazi.

Within four hours after being alerted by Libyan officials Thursday night, Col. Irwin H. Dregne, commander of Wheelus Field and Lt. Col. William M. McDonald, commander of the 58th Squadron, had dispatched six aircraft with supplies to the stricken area.

Still Feel Tremors

Blood donor stations were set up at Wheelus and in Tripoli and American and Libyan volunteers joined in providing plasma for emergency use in Al Marj.

As rescuers worked through the night to save lives, tremors of Libya's worst earthquake could still be felt in the rubble-filled main street of the town.

Must Get Approval By City

Option Is Taken On 100-Acre Tract

Plans for the development of a 100-acre downtown tract opposite Hasbrouck Park for senior citizens' apartments, were announced today.

Morris and Citroen real estate firm said that an option to purchase the property has been obtained by Paul Dennis Enterprises, a New York City building and developing firm. The property presently is owned by another New York City corporation.

2-Story Garden Sites

C. D. Morris of the local real estate organization, said tentative plans call for the construction of two-story garden apartments in the tract running north from Delaware Avenue opposite the park. He said the plans were "in the earliest stages" and have yet to be presented to the city for approval.

Morris said several factors attracted the Dennis enterprises to Kingston as a potential cite for such a development.

Among these, he said, was the fact that the city was "an excellent focal point for transportation," with direct facilities such as the Thruway.

Other Factors Cited

This would provide for convenient transportation to and from New York City, he said.

Among other contributing factors, Morris said, would be that the development would bring many hundreds of people into Kingston, add to the city's purchasing power, convert a low-rate property into a tax-producing property and provide for a tax production. Morris pointed out that the residency by the elder citizens would be no added burden on the community — and there would be no children to augment the increasing school population.

Flu Epidemic Hits Many Texas Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Influenza has reached near epidemic proportions in several Texas cities.

The outbreaks, once confined largely to the Atlantic Seaboard, continue to sweep westward. Areas in Missouri and Michigan are hard hit.

Austin, the Texas capital, had 467 flu-type cases reported in the last six days. More than 10 teachers have been sidelined by the disease.

School absenteeism in Dallas skyrocketed to 2 per cent Friday, twice that of the previous day. Dallas hospitals report a heavy run of flu cases and have stopped visitors, except for the critcally ill.

Two medical experts said the severe outbreak of respiratory infections in the St. Louis area is predominantly Asian flu. School officials are hopeful that the three-day vacation this weekend will halt the spread of the disease and reduce the mounting teacher and pupil absenteeism.

Dr. Charles Anderson, Detroit health commissioner, estimated that 30,000 Detroiters are suffering from viruses attacking the upper respiratory system.

Union Organizer Claims Attack By Plant Worker

An electrical worker was arrested in Wallkill Friday on a third-degree assault charge after he allegedly struck a union organizer.

Michael Galick, 51, of Wallkill, an employe of the Fair Rite Corp., was arraigned before Peace Justice Seth Lippincott. He was paroled into the custody of his attorney for his appearance 10 a. m. on Tuesday.

Complainant in the action is Herbert Brown, 36, of Marlboro, an organizer for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Troopers Wally Mahan and Edward Pulver, of Highland substation, State Police, said Brown was passing out pamphlets at the Fair Rite plant when an argument developed. They said Brown charged that Galick punched him in the face with his fists during the argument.

Viewed as Morale Builders

Washington Shrugs Off Soviet Threat

WASHINGTON (AP)—Apparently unimpressed, official Washington has shrugged off the new Soviet missile flexing over Cuba as "blast and bluster" propaganda.

The threats from Soviet Defense Minister Rodion Y. Malinovsky were regarded as blood-and-thunder morale builders—both for at home and for Fidel Castro's regime.

Usual Oratory: Rusk

In a Moscow speech Friday, marking the eve of the 45th anniversary of the Soviet armed forces, the Red marshal warned that if Americans attack Cuba, it will mean a third world war and nuclear devastation for the United States.

The usual type of oratory "you expect on the 45th anniversary of the Soviet armed forces," said Secretary of State Dean Rusk. But speechmaking, he added, isn't going to change "the combination of forces in the world."

Behind the closed doors of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara outlined U.S. methods for carrying out American policy toward Cuba.

Afterward committee Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., said McNamara had "made it very clear that we are pursuing a policy that will result in the elimination of Castroism and communism from Cuba." But Russell declined to go into details on the grounds they are classified.

Will Shoot Down Attackers

McNamara also assured the committee, Russell said, that U.S. planes will shoot down any Cuban-based MIGs that attack American ships or installations.

He said the question of retaliation had come up in a discussion with McNamara of the Cuban MIG attack on an American shrimp boat.

Scoffing at the Soviet suggestion that any U.S. move on Cuba might touch off another world war, Russell said, "I do not believe that the Russians are 10 feet tall. I hope we can avoid any nuclear war because it would kill tens of millions of Americans while we are eliminating them."

Malinovsky claimed that the Soviet Union can "wipe off the earth all targets, industrial and administrative-political centers of the United States." He said it can "destroy completely the countries which have made available their territories for American war bases."

Dirkson Favors Answer

Russell called it "blast and bluster" and said Soviet Premier Khrushchev's decision to withdraw missiles and bombers from Cuba proved "we now have superior nuclear delivery systems."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana found nothing new in the Soviet threats. But Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said the Russians should be answered and indicated he might have more to say on that score later.

Castro Says Cuba Not Attacker of U.S. Shrimp Boat

HAVANA (AP)—Cuban Premier Fidel Castro today denied that his forces had attacked an American shrimp boat. He charged instead that the United States was creating artificial tensions and making the seas off Cuba unsafe for navigation.

Crowd Roars Loyalty

As thousands cheered, Castro read extracts from Soviet Defense Moscow speech Friday in which the Soviet arms chief warned that a U.S. attack on Cuba would touch off World War III.

"Fidel, Khrushchev, we are with you both!" roared the crowd at the midnight rally—first meeting of the United Party of Socialist Revolution.

This is a Soviet-style monolithic organization Castro has created to supplant old political parties and to rule Cuba.

Denying responsibility for the shrimp boat incident, Castro nevertheless vowed to defend himself "by all possible means against any attack."

Denies U. S. Charges

The American boat Ala "didn't even fly a flag," Castro said. "Of course, this was a consequence of the state of chaos which imperialism has created in our waters."

He repeated Cuban claims that his air force was looking for two boats "which pirates had taken."

Castro denied U.S. charges that subversion and indirect attack are the main Communist threats in Latin America.

"We do not practice subversion nor export revolution," he told the crowd.

Blaze Wipes Out 10 of One Family In Missouri Home

SIKESTON, Mo. (AP)—Ten persons, all members of the same family, burned to death today in their home about 7 miles west of Sikeston, the highway patrol reported.

Firemen from Sikeston found the home in flames at 3 a.m. and were unable to locate any survivors.

Parents, 8 Children

The highway patrol listed the dead as Mr. and Mrs. Paul Saville and eight children.

The children were Paul David Jr., Glenda Sue, Hester, Everett, Alvin, Henderson, Michael and Zelda Mae.

Found in 2 Beds

Chief of Police J. T. Kindred said it appeared that the family was trapped in the one story frame dwelling at Moorehouse, Mo. The bodies were found in two beds, Kindred said.

Police said Saville was disabled. He had been supporting his family on a government pension.

Kindred said the cause of the fire has not been determined. The only apparent source of heat in the home was a coal stove.

Cross Connections Bad, Plumbing Head Stresses

Plumbing Inspector Charles J. Kelly, in a statement released today warned against use of well water and electric pumps along with the city water system in what are known as cross connections.

Discovery of a condition on a Bruyn Avenue property, he said, led to issuance of the warning, and he advised that "cross connections are a direct violation of Section 81 of the City Plumbing Code. "The cross connection discovered recently, he said, was corrected by a licensed plumber. It had been arranged to make use of a water well and pump cross-connected with city water.

A cross connection, he said, may be defined as a point in a plumbing system where the potable water supply may come in contact with a potential source of contamination. The inspector says cross connections are dangerous because of the vacuum which inevitably develop, according to the laws of physics, in water supply lines under certain conditions. Reduction in city water pressure, shut off of water for repairs, heavy demand for water during fires, or mere operation of the system can create a partial vacuum or negative pressure in the water pipes.

The reversal of flow which results when a vacuum occurs in water piping is known as back syphonage. Back syphonage, wherever there is a cross connection, is the drawing of sewage or other non-potable water or other material into the fresh water supply. Kelly says cross connections result in hazards to the health, safety and welfare of the public. In proper maintenance and installation of plumbing facilities can lead to a condition known as interconnection, which may result in waste water from our drains and toilets, finding its way into our drinking water. Improper maintenance and installation of plumbing facilities may lead to a condition known as back-syphonage, which may result in water from a wash bowl being syphoned into the drinking water pipes. Improper maintenance and installation of plumbing facilities may result in a condition know as cross connection, which may lead to pipes carrying contaminated water flowing into pipes supposedly carrying clean and pure water.

The inspector said that with the rapid advancement of technological achievement, adequate and safe plumbing facilities become increasingly important.

May Assume Role of Umpire

Await Wagner Word On Next News Act

NEW YORK (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner has promised a decision today on his next step he will take in trying to end the 78-day blackout of the city's nine major newspapers.

A City Hall spokesman said Friday the mayor would announce his plans in the next 24 hours.

Follows JFK Advice

One possible course open to him is to go along with the suggestion of several non-striking newspaper unions. They urged the mayor to assume the role of impartial umpire and recommend a peace formula.

The suggestion was along the lines proposed earlier by President Kennedy, who urged all parties involved "to submit their differences to independent determination of some kind. . . ."

New York City publishers quickly accepted Kennedy's umpire idea.

But the striking printers—Local 6 of the AFL-CIO International Typographical Union—held back approval. They were fearful the proposal might mean compulsory arbitration, which they long have opposed.

Three non-striking unions—the New York Newspaper Guild, the Paper Handlers and the Deliverers unions—all asked Wagner to recommend a settlement, with the AFL-CIO Guild proposing next Thursday as the deadline for doing so.

Guild Ratifies Pact

In Cleveland, Ohio, where five striking unions have forced that city's two newspapers to shut down for 86 days, one of the five came to terms with publishers. Members of the Cleveland Newspaper Guild ratified new contracts Friday with the Plain Dealer and the Press & News.

But with the AFL-CIO printers, machinists and mailers still on strike, along with the independent Teamsters Union, there was no sign of immediate resumption of publication that would put 3,000 newspaper people back to work.

Guild leaders estimated the value of the wage package in the new contracts at from $9.25 to $10.40 per week over a two-year period.

U.S. Bars Reds In Buses From Entering Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—U.S. authorities today barred four busloads of Soviet military personnel from entering West Berlin at Checkpoint Charlie on the Communist wall dividing the city.

The Soviets were on their way to the Soviet War Memorial in West Berlin for a wreath-laying ceremony on Red Army Day.

A U.S. spokesman said the buses were stopped at the request of British authorities, who had reached an agreement with the Soviets that military personnel going to the memorial would use the Sandkrug Bridge checkpoint in the British Sector.

The British sector checkpoint provides the shortest and most direct route to the memorial near the Brandenburg Gate.

After the four buses turned back, they drove to the Sandkrug Bridge checkpoint and were allowed to pass.

The buses were held up at the American checkpoint for more than an hour while Soviet and U.S. officials negotiated.

McHugh Charges Tuition Now Political Football

In a statement issued Thursday, Jesse McHugh, Town of Shawangunk supervisor and Republican majority leader of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors, charged that rather than make a serious study of the State University tuition question "many politicians have sought to becloud the issue and make a political football of education in New York State.

"However, a close examination of the average student's cost under the new program results as follows," McHugh said.

1. A $400 basic tuition minus a $100 student incentive grant which brings the tuition down to $300 immediately. No New York State student capable and showing an incentive to do college work will be denied this grant.

2. If the taxable income of the family, and I emphasize taxable not gross income, is less than $7,500 the tuition charge will not be more than $200.

3. If the taxable income of the family is less than $1,800 there will be no tuition charge. Now in addition to all this, there is a student loan program which does not have to be repaid until the student has been out of college for a period of years, and the state guarantees that the interest on said loan can never exceed 3 per cent. And then, there is a greatly accelerated scholarship program for the students qualifying in this state.

"This then, is the program in brief, free from all political trimmings and merely stating the plain, simple facts".

"Under the present survey of students in our state colleges there would be very few paying tuition and as a matter of fact many of those presently paying $500 for certain courses today will find that under the new program their tuition may be zero."

Mum on Accident That Took Both Her Legs

Upstate Girl, 7, Just Talks About Her Toys, 'Boyfriend'

WATERLOO, N.Y. (AP)—Dark-haired Debbie Marcuccilli, who used to take dancing lessons, talks about toys and boyfriends, not about the school-bus accident that cost her her legs.

Debbie, 7, smiled as she sat in a wheelchair Friday at Taylor-Brown Hospital in this Central New York village.

"Do you know," she told a reporter, "I have a new boyfriend. He's Doctor Koch."

Dr. David L. Koch of Seneca Falls, a surgeon, is caring for her. Doctors amputated Debbie's badly crushed left leg last Monday. Part of her right leg was torn off in the collision of the school bus and a tractor-trailer here Feb. 13.

In her room, where she is surrounded with gifts and about 1,000 cards from many sections of the country, Debbie asked to be handed a brightly colored stuffed elephant.

"I call him Ralph," she said, hugging it. "I just love Ralph."

The elephant was named after Ralph Worden, 32, the schoool-bus driver. There were 62 children aboard the bus when it crashed, but only four, including Debbie, had to be hospitalized.

Worden was injured too. He gave Debbie the elephant before he left the hospital this week.

Debbie, wearing a bandage on her forehead, asked a nurse to hand her a dish filled with colored Easter eggs.

"These are from Stevie Lawrence," she said. "He's in my grade and used to be my boyfriend."

After her hospital stay, Debbie will be moved to a rehabilitation center or hospital in Rochester to be fitted with artificial legs.

"Only once since the second operation has Debbie broken down and cried. . ." said her mother, Mrs. Orazio Marcuccilli of Seneca Falls.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

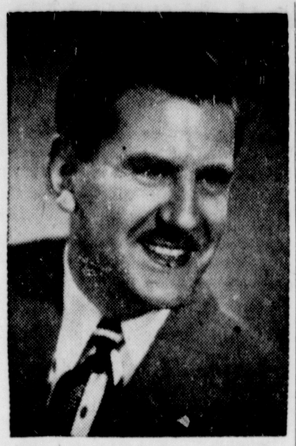

Once more we start the Lenten season—the 40 days that commemorate Jesus' 40 days of trial in the wilderness. He used this time for spiritual training, to prepare himself for the mission that lay ahead. He was hungry and He was tempted. "And the devil said unto him, If thou be the son of God, command this stone that it be made bread. And Jesus answered him saying, It is written, That man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word of God." For us too Lent should be a time of study and reflection on the word of God that we may do well the work that has been set out for us. The small trials that we may set upon ourselves can remind us that Lent is a period of preparation for sharing in the power that comes from faith in Christ.

Rosaries Replace Dice at Hostelry Taken by Jesuits

By STEVE VAN CLEVE

WEST BADEN, Ind. (AP)—The click of rosary beads has replaced the clack of dice at the hostelry which once made West Baden a mecca for thousands.

The plush little world of the West Baden Springs Hotel began to crumble Oct. 29, 1929. News of the stock market crash sent its rich, dice-tossing clientele scurrying for home.

Patrons at the 708-room hotel—built around a domed Pompeiian court—ranged from the idle rich to "Scarface Al" Capone, who drove over the brick streets through the grounds in his armored car.

The circular brick building, its dome rearing 130 feet amid the southern Indiana hills, still stands.

But the roulette wheels and dice tables are gone, and the mineral springs which attracted thousands are plugged.

No women are allowed where diamond and fur-draped society matrons once strolled the circular halls.

Those who stroll those halls now are black-clothed men — many reading or meditating.

The yellow brick building houses West Baden College, the school of philosophy and theology for Jesuits of the Chicago and Detroit provinces studying for the Roman Catholic priesthood.

Nearly 300 prospective priests spend seven of their 15 years of study after high school here.

The hotel was the dream of Lee W. Sinclair, who decreed it should be circular and support the world's widest dome. He saw that dream come true on June 14, 1902, when the first customers registered.

The dome, which remained the largest in the world for 40 years, contains 120 tons of steel. The building contains 237,720 square feet of floor space on its six floors.

Sinclair died in 1916 and his heirs sold the resort to Charles Edward Ballard, a West Baden man who had owned two other large hotels and the Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus.

Under Ballard's management, the hotel attracted more conventions and used gambling more extensively as a come-on.

Ballard closed the hotel in July, 1932, and began looking for a buyer. He dropped the price to $350,000 — one-tenth the assessed valuation—with no luck.

The Rev. Roy Allan Hassel of Trinity Methodist Church will deliver the message and the Rev. Dr. David C. Gaise, pastor of the host church will pronounce the benediction.

Contributions help support overseas colleges, provide Christian literature, assist migrant ministry and make possible hospiality for 60,000 students who come to this country annually from overseas.

Child, Family Welfare Group Meets Thursday

The February meeting of the Ulster County Unit of the Evangelical Child and Family Welfare Service will be held Thursday 8 p. m. at Grace Community Church, Neighborhood Road, Lake Karine.

Speaker for the evening will be Clinton Tasker, of Syracuse. Mr. Tasker travels extensively in the capacity of chairman of the Interim Committee, and is up to date on the progress being made toward the chartering of this organization in New York State.

The Evangelical Child and Family Welfare Service, when chartered, will serve to provide family counseling, and the placing out for adoption or board, dependent and neglected children. At the present time, the organization has a very successful program in Chicago, Philadelphia and Los Angeles.

The goals may be summed up in the motto adpoted by the Interim Committee, "serving the unloved, unwanted, and uncared for."

It is hoped that interested pastors, laymen and women of the Kingston and surrounding area will attend this meeting and obtain first-hand information on this worth-while work.

Brigade Month Observance Set By Area Baptists

Throughout Canada and the United States, the month of February is observed as Christian Service Brigade month.

The local Brigade 425 of the First Baptist Church of Saugerties will have special activities honoring this occasion. Sunday morning, February 24th, at 11 a. m., the boys of this group will take part in the worship service. Tuesday, 7 p. m., the leaders and boys will have open house. Since that time, the Brigade has grown from a small group to more than 40,000 boys meeting in 1,700 chartered groups. In 1959, Brigade Venture, a Christian boys' magazine, was born. It contains 24 pages with stories and articles by well known men. It also features sports, achievement" know-how," and jokes.

Heading the local group is a committee with Calvin C. Cody as chairman, assisted by Michael Battaglia and Arthur Hansen. The Brigade is divided into two groups. The Stockade is for boys 8-11; the Battalion is for boys 12-18. The Stockade is led by Chief Ranger Gerald Finger, with Rangers William Coxeter, Gordon Craw, Phil Cripe and James Reynolds; and the Rev. Brooks Henry, pastor assisting. Robert Finger leads the Battalion with Lts. Alva Cody, Calvin H. Cody and David Nordquist.

Ancient Pre-Lenten Customs Marked Winter's Final Gasp

Next Tuesday, Feb. 26, last day before Lent, is hailed throughout the world as Mardi Gras or Shrove Tuesday.

This festal occasion, observed in New Orleans with masquerades and in Philadelphia's mummers parade, expresses in a modern way man's rejoicing at the end of winter and arrival of spring. It precedes Ash Wednesday which begins the long Lenten fast and mortification in preparation for Easter.

Shrove Tuesday is the end of the three-day "Shrovetide," or period in which the faithful were "shriven" by confessing their sins before the start of the penitential season. "Mardi Gras" means literally "fat Tuesday"—in recognition of the fact that the "lean days" of Lent lay ahead.

In pre-Christian times, participants in wild costumes ran shouting and screaming through open spaces around their homes to frighten away winter's demons. In southern Germany, Austria and some Slavic countries such mummers parades are still held.

Another ancient rite to frighten winter away involved tying firebrands to wooden rings or wheels and rolling them down hillsides into meadows. In southern Germany the first Sunday in Lent still is called Fire Sunday and the custom is followed. In France it is known as the Feast of Torches and youngsters ran through the streets with firebrands.

Burials of winter are still held in many lands. Sometimes with feigned sadness, more often in joyous abandon, a heroic ragged figure is dragged through the village followed by "mourners" in masquerade. The figure, dressed in white to symbolize snow, is either buried or "executed" to the acclaim of onlookers.

Many symbolic demonstrations were held to welcome the return of the sun and to assure the blessings of fertility.

Joy over the appearance of the first plants prompted many to attribute to them special powers of healing and protection. A striking adaptation of this was the medieval custom, recently revived in many places, of planting "Mary gardens," made up of herbs and flowers ascribed by legend as a tribute to the Blessed Virgin.

Another practice was symbolic plowing in early spring, with a real plow on a wooden log, to make the earth fertile This was done with elaborate ceremonies, often with a mummers parade. In England the Monday following Jan. 6 acquired from this the name "Ploughmonday."

The role of water in flourishing soil was the basis of many ancient water rites. In Europe it was the fashion to sprinkle women and girls with water to assure blessing of fertility and health. The custom survives during carnival time or Easter when boys splash water on the girls, who retaliate next day.

There is a legend that on Easter all running water is especially blessed because the risen Lord bestowed special powers on such elements for the one great day. Thus in many parts of eastern and central Europe, and in France, women and girls wash their faces in brooks and rivers on Easter morning. A similar custom in French Canada finds people washing themselves that day with water from rivers or fountains. Irish legend attributes to water fetched on Easter special power against witches and evil spirits.

Deadline Set For Midweek Lenten Notices

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, FEBRUARY 23, 1963

DEPARTMENT OF FACTS

Labor and management in the steel industry have come up with an idea which may not only reduce strife in that field but could have much broader application in public affairs.

After the marathon steel strike of 1959, a human relations committee was established with both labor and company officials participating. Skeptics forecast a short, unproductive life for the committee, but it has confounded them.

It devotes itself to finding a basis for mutual understanding of many complex problems besetting the industry, such as what the real cost is of company medical insurance and how certain work rules affect worker efficiency and company output.

According to a Wall Street Journal report, this committee has had important beginning success in developing a body of agreed, accepted facts in many potentially explosive matters.

The idea for the group was born in the 1959 strike, when negotiators realized that both sides were arguing heatedly over issues neither one really knew enough about.

The industry's new approach, a co-operative search for solid information instead of an emotional hollering contest at contract time, deserves to be applied in many sectors of public life.

The federal budget is one. It is perennially a storm center of political controversy.

Countless politicians, eager to prove their bent for economy, tend to engulf the budget dispute in a fog of misstatement and misunderstanding.

Members of Congress do not tinker much with the defense and space budget. They can posture patriotically against a backdrop of these astronomical figures, not troubling to mention that their own states and districts are often prime beneficiaries of these outlays.

The rest of the budget can be heavily assaulted. By any fair measure it keeps getting bigger, and so does the number of federal employes.

But seldom if ever do the lawmakers—and the general voting public—have a reasonable understanding as to how much of this growth, if any, is justified and how much is not.

A congressman asserts that Agriculture Department is adding hundreds of new people to "spy on farmers." Agriculture replies that its additional people are meat inspectors and forest service workers, needed to police rising numbers of meat plants and to watch over national parks increasingly flooded with visitors.

Now either this is so or it is not. The truth is ascertainable. And we ought to have some kind of impartial, responsible joint government group which can lay the facts on the line.

Politics is never going to stop at the Budget Bureau's door, nor should it. But at least we ought to take out of the debating arena that kind of wild-flailing argument which is grounded in misinformation and ignorance.

WHY THE RECORDS FALL

One of the questions frequently raised in the sports world is why records keep falling. Though athletes may seem about the same as those of yore, they manage to improve on the performances of years ago in many fields.

One obvious factor is that equipment has been improved in various sports. This is not the whole answer, but it does explain some of today's athletic prowess. Baseball fans generally agree that the snappier baseball has had something to do with the increased number of home runs in recent years. And there is little doubt that the whiplash action of the glass fiber pole has been a boon to pole vaulters. The other day in Finland a man vaulted 16 feet 8¾ inches.

This irks the purists, who claim that such jumping is more a triumph for the pole than for the man. It does give jumpers an advantage over those of previous generations. But if all today's jumpers use the same kind of pole, what does it matter? They have the same relative advantage. And soon one will top 17 feet.

The House votes to tighten up on expense-account travel by some committees. But there are still quite a few big fish outside the net.

Undersecretary Ball says critics should quit attacking U. S. Cuban policy. Some critics will agree to this — if the U. S. will attack Cuba.

The baseball clubs will start spring training this month to get in shape. The rest of us are keeping in shape through exercise—shivering.

Various states are making auto seat belts compulsory. Getting drivers and passengers to fasten them is something else again.

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

FAIR FOR THE AMISH, FAIR FOR ALL

The Amish people of Ohio and Lancaster County in Pennsylvania, who have religious scruples about becoming wards in any way of the Welfare State, are petitioning Congress to exempt them from the system of compulsory Social Security. No doubt all congenital individualists should wish the Amish well in their quest. But I, for one, would resent the favoritism implied if one group is relieved of the spiritual degradation of having to be carried on Big Brother State's books as a bunch of nine-digit numbers while others have to put up with it.

You see, my objection to the philosophy of the Welfare State is fundamentally religious, too. I am not a member of the Amish sect, or, indeed, of any organized religious group. But my feeling about the nature of man is such that I think it all wrong when human beings are compelled in such things as this matter of saving for their old age. God, to my way of thinking, gave people the grace of free will with the idea that they should exercise it without a cop standing over them at every important turn in their lives.

In this country there is supposed to be such a thing as equal protection of the law: the legal privileges and immunities of the citizen are, theoretically, equal. This doctrine derives from the Christian belief that every soul is equal in the sight of God. Of course, the whole concept of legal equality actually went by the boards years ago. The progressive income tax, for example, makes all sorts of exemptions for all sorts of people's dollars. A rich man's high-bracket dollars are nicked at a much higher rate than a poor man's—unless the rich man happens to have invested his money in municipal tax-exempt bonds or in expeditions devoted to exploring for new sources of oil.

Inequality before the law is built into the whole tissue of our economy. A man who gives his money to organized charity gets a tax break—but my extreme individualist friend Harry Serwer, an advertising man who gives his money on principle to needy individuals, is given no deductions for his benevolences. A man in the writing business would be laughed out of his Congressman's anteroom if he were to ask for a federal price support for his words if editors declined to pay him a certain rate. Farmers, on the other hand, receive price supports for their produce as a matter of course. Are words, then, less deserving of equity than wheat?

The idea that we still live by the old principle of justice that prescribes equality of privileges and immunities is, in practice, strictly for the birds as the degenerate modern age sees it. Well, my religious view of life is such that I am profoundly offended by this state of affairs. My Creator, I am deeply convinced, did not put me on earth to be a ward of the State in any shape or manner. For the act of making me a ward, whether it is as a subsidized consumer or producer or as a recipient of medicare or whatever, invites the forcible seizure of some poor devil's substance in order to take care of me. Morally and religiously, this is wrong. It is an offense against the commandment that makes theft a sin. It is also an offense against the idea that the legal privileges and immunities of free men should be equal.

Now, if the Amish people are to be exempted from compulsory Social Security on religious grounds, I claim that I should be exempted, too. I take my stand on the fundamental insights of Christianity, as exemplified in all the documents that formed the thinking of the Founding Fathers of the Republic. Can it be right that an Amish farmer should be granted something for religious reasons that is denied other staunch believers in the religious sanctions of Christian individualism? Must we all become adherents to the Amish cult to have the blessings of liberty restored to us?

I hold no animosity against the Amish; indeed, I admire their spunk. But what about those of us whose religion is of a personal, unorganized character? Are we to be discriminated against simply because we can't shout loud enough to prove that our God is against compulsion in Social Security, too?

The Mature Parent

To Fear to Err Is Human

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence:

My little boy's nursery school teacher says that he can't make decisions. She says that the other children always get ahead of him because he can't make up his mind what colored paper or toy he wants to play with. I have noticed myself how tense he gets when he has to select a candy from a box. Even when he manages to pick one out he is never satisfied with it but always wants to change it. . . .

ANSWER: How are you on decisions? When you've made one that turns out to be uncomfortable, do you feel obliged to stick to it?

If you do, you must be as fearful of making decisions as your little boy.

It is extremely difficult to make decisions, no matter how old we are, if we feel that there is no out from a mistaken one.

We teach a child to develop contentment with his choices by refusing to punish him for a bad one. When he hesitates between a cherry candy and a lemon one, we remove the threat from his decision by giving him an out from the one that may prove unsatisfactory. We say, "Take the lemon one, and if you don't like it, you can have this red one." By making a correction of the bad decision available to him, we release him from fear of making any.

Do I sound subversive and overindulgent to you?

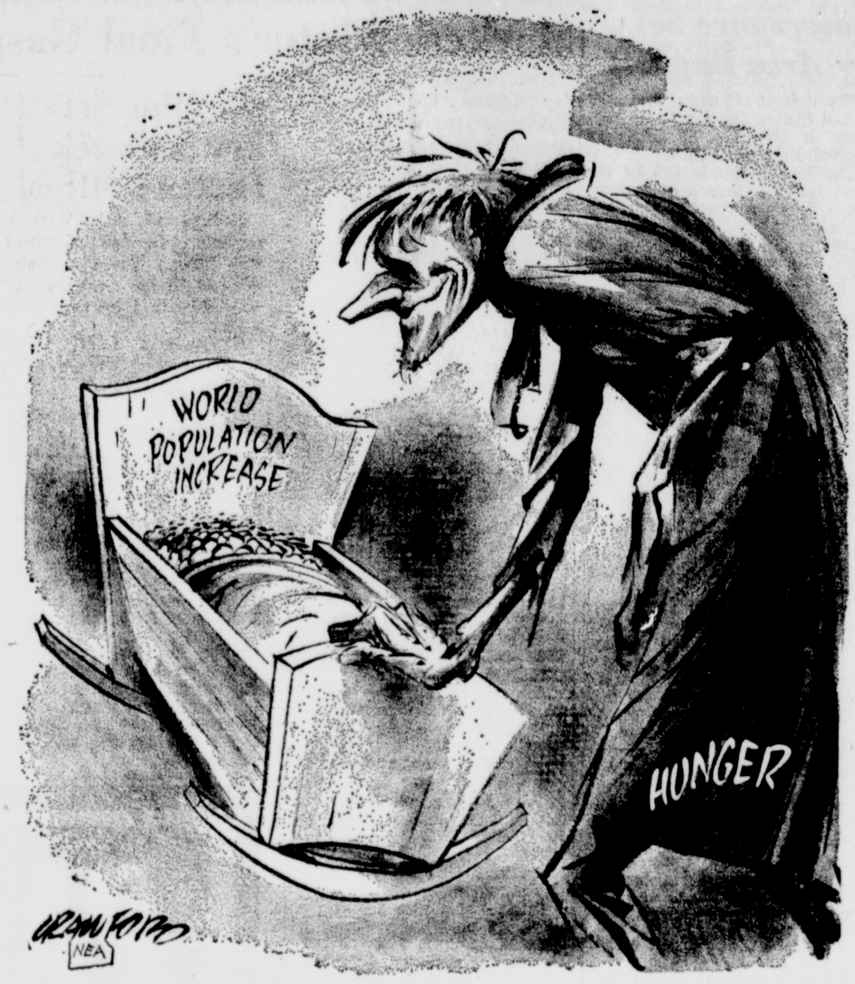

If so, that may be because you pride yourself on tolerating the uncomfortable consequences of your own mistaken choices. Many of us do suffer from this kind of self-punishing pride.

We regard our submission to the punishing results of our poor decision as fine and responsible, whereas the fact is, we are people who cannot forgive ourselves a mistake. We are people who must always be right.

We certainly have to pay for mistakes. But we don't have to hang on the cross of them indefinitely. It is only parents who hate themselves for being wrong who create the problem of indecisiveness in children. They inject the children with such fear of being wrong that they can't invite a mistake by picking out the wrong candy.

The Hand That Rocks . . .

Washington News

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Sen. Barry M. Goldwater's contribution to capital comedy is his speech accepting the Alfalfa Club's nomination for the presidency — which none of its nominees has ever attained. Here are excerpts:

"This is one of the most exciting things that's happened to me since Walter Reuther made me an honorary auto worker . . . The White House is now ready and waiting for me since Jackie remodeled it with 18th centry decor . . . They call me a conservative, and in the sense that the word means, 'to conserve,' it fits. The two things I am trying hardest to conserve are gold and water . . . My platform for this campaign will be just five words, 'Elect Goldwater! Elect Goldwater! Ditto.'"

BROOKS HAYS of Arkansas, probably the best story teller in Washington, recites one of his favorites about the man and woman seated next to each other at a Washington dinner.

"You're Mrs. Post " asks the man . . . "Yes," she replies . . . "Mrs. Emily Post?" . . . "Yes" . . . "You're the author of the book on etiquette?" . . . "Yes." . . . "Well, madam, you're eating my salad."

PHOTOGRAPHIC portraits of President Kennedy hang in government offices all over Washington. You can't tell one from the other.

But on St. Valentine's Day there was one with a difference. In an Agriculture Department office an enthusiastic secretary yielded to an impulse that fit the mood of the day.

She made a paper cutout of a pair of rosy lips and pasted the "kiss" to the President's cheek.

WHEN SIGMA DELTA CHI honored columnist David Lawrence by making him a "Fellow" of the national journalistic society, Washington Star editor Benjamin McKelway delivered the eulogy in which he said:

"When David Lawrence was born on Christmas Day, 1888, he sat up in his crib and declared, 'There ain't no Santa Claus. And if the liberals continue to support this myth, the country is headed for socialism and ruin.' Whereupon he demanded his typewriter and yelled 'Copy!'

"He has been doing that ever since."

WHITE HOUSE Correspondents, overjoyed that the 50-mile hike with presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger in pursuit of physical fitness was called off, presented plucky Pierre with a half jeroboam of cognac and a message reading "Retired Walkers' Survival Kit."

Salinger's change of heart in his originally scheduled trek up the towpath averted plans of his friends to be at the trail when he started out.

They were prepared to present him with a huge St. Bernard dog carrying a beautiful girl on his back and a bottle of cognac in a soft leather carrying case slung from his neck.

PENTAGON OFFICIALS also got into the physical fitness act by posting this announcement to the press:

"Newsmen are invited to follow members of the News Directorate on a demonstration of walking ability tonight between 5:30 ad 6:30.

"Beginning at corridor 7, E. Ring, various members of the staff will depart for such far-flung areas as North Parking and South Parking, and the bus ramps below the Concourse. Older and more senile members will strut at a hardy pace to the Mall parking area. Full packs (brief cases, bumbershoots and empty lunch bags) will be carried."

THE RECORDING of President Kennedy's remarks to the White House Correspondents Assn. dinner, shortly after he had delivered his blast at Roger Blough for raising steel prices, probably will be an all-time classic among Washington newsmen. Here are snatches of the President's satire on his own broadcast to the nation after the steel crisis.

"The sudden and arbitrary action of the officers of this organization is increasing the price of this dinner by $2.50 is a wholly unjustified defiance of the public interest. . . . If this action is not reversed . . . it will have serious impact on the economy of the nation. . . . In this hour when newsmen are awakened in the middle of the night by FBI and given a front page story, it is hard to accept the ruthless decision made by a tiny handful of executives whose only interest is the pursuit of pleasure." And so on.

Our Big Food Bargain, How to Protect It

BY JOHN STROHM
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

CHICAGO, (NEA)—Your food is the biggest bargain the earth has ever seen.

Never have people been able to buy so much food, of such variety, for such a reasonable price as they can today in the U. S. A. Thanks go to America's No. 1 Success Story, the American Farmer.

Mrs. America, after taxes, pays out on the average only 20 per cent of her income for food. By contrast, the Russian family must spend 56 per cent; the Chinese family nearly 75 per cent; in Italy, 38 per cent; Nigeria, 70 per cent; Peru, 40 per cent.

This means Americans can have guns and butter too. You have more money left for the so-called good things of life—education, recreation, television sets, two cars.

The real pay-off is the little time it takes a worker to win the daily bread. The average American industrial worker works only 38 hours to earn the monthly market basket, but the Russian works three times as long for less food. To earn a pound of butter, the average American works less than 20 minutes; the Russian, 193 minutes. A pound of rice costs an American 5 minutes of work; a Japanese, 25 minutes. A pound of sugar costs an American worker 3 minutes of work; a Russian 75 minutes.

In the U. S. 8 per cent of the people live on the land and each farm worker produces enough food to feed himself and 26 others. In Russia, with 45 per cent of the people on the land, one farmer has a hard time feeding three or four others.

This is the true significance of the American farm accomplishment.

It means we can race Russia to the moon, without giving up luxuries or necessities. Yet the Russians have not been able to provide sufficient food, clothing or housing for their people. Fifty-five per cent of their farm workers are women who work in the fields to produce food.

In the U. S. we have an average 80 per cent of every dollar of the highest wages in the world to spend for other things besides food. Russia has only 45 cents of a smaller number of dollars to spend for other things.

No wonder Russian housing is tremendously short by our standards. No wonder only one Russian family in 100 has an automobile.

That's why the American food story has vast signficance for the rest of the world.

Food is cheaper than in the "good old days" when beef was 14 cents a pound and bread two loaves for a nickel. The real cost adds up like this: Granddad worked for $10 a week in 1912, and spent $5 or 50 per cent for food. His industrial worker grandson earns $100 and spends only $25 or 25 per cent for more and better food.

For one hour of labor your dad bought 1.2 pounds of round steak — and you can buy 2.2 pounds. He bought 7.8 pints of milk and you can buy 18.4 pints. He bought 15 oranges, while you buy 36 oranges.

"But I spend more," protests the homemaker. One answer to that is that $3 out of every $20 spent in the supermarket where you have 6,000 items to choose from goes for a wide variety of non-food items — from basketballs to bobby pins. Actually the food price index since 1947-49 has gone up only 23 per cent, compared to 34 per cent for housing, 53 per cent for transportation, 46 per cent for rent.

The housewife's can opener and other built-in maid services have been the butt of jokesters and cartoonists whom we suspect are nostalgic men longing for the kitchen virtues of their mothers. The U. S. homemaker does buy time in the form "instant" and heat-and-eat food in boil-in-bag containers. Such conveniences have reduced her daily food preparation work from five and one-half hours to one and one-half hours, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture studies.

But the housewife need not feel guilty. She can work four extra hours for 45 cents an hour and save $1.80, or she can devote that time to her children, to community activities or to keeping up with the world. Furthermore, convenience foods have made it possible for many of the nearly 25 million women who work outside the home to hold jobs.

All because farmers continue to make giant strides. If our farms were no more efficient than the Russian collective farms where I've visited, 20 to 25 million American industrial workers would have to go back to the farm. Think what a devastating blow that would be to our standard of living and our ability to match missiles with the Communists.

Our U. S. farmers continue to make giant strides. One hour of labor produces more than four times as much food as it did in 1920. An acre produces 65 per cent more. Each breeding animal produces 94 per cent more. Farm labor efficiency increased 5.5 per cent per year in the 1950s compared with a 2.2 per cent increase for U. S. industry. And since we'll need much more food by 1975, and we have no more land — our farmers must be more efficient in the years ahead.

In summary: What does the "food and farm" problem mean to you?

- To the housewife, who is now getting the biggest food bargain on earth: She must hope that agriculture continues to be free — and progressive, or she no longer will have that bargain.
- To the taxpayer, who is now paying towards a $6 billion farm budget annually: He must hope that sanity returns to Congress before we standardize all our farms into mediocrity, trying to keep farmers on the farm.
- To the citizens concerned about the world battle against communism: Let's not blunt one of the most useful weapons we have — a free agriculture that can produce prodigiously!

The American system has produced more food, more variety, and higher quality at a decreasing real cost to the consumer. This has been man's dream since creation. It's what billions on earth now long for. It's what Communist dictators like Khrushchev would give their eye teeth for.

Let's not fritter away our food success with government "farm program help" ,that realy hurts.

BABSON on BUSINESS

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass., Feb. 22—For some time I have written a weekly column for this newspaper. My group of papers started with a handful and they now exceed 400. Altogether this is the 2,089th weekly column. I have a library in my winter home containing over 6,000 books. If I could keep only three of them, I believe I would choose a good college dictionary, a copy of the Revised Bible with concordance, and the World Almanac. This latter book has been published annually for 78 years by the New York World-Telegram & The Sun. It is regarding this last book that I want to devote this week's column. You can buy all three—Dictionary, Bible, and Almanac from your local book store for less than five dollars.

Our Brains and Memories

Many of the greatest leaders of our educational, scientific business, and political world never attended a conventional college. All of them, however, were great readers of Facts. Psychologists tell me that we each use less than 5 per cent of our brain and that we are probably rated by our memories. Yet our memory may be trained without any college, or even high school, education.

It is a most wonderful miracle how a fact is turned into a light wave which enters your eye. This electric wave is then deposited in one of the million storage "record holders" in your brain which can be called upon to "come forth" and tell you what it is. How I wish I were young and could devote my life to God's greates gift, the human brain.

The World Almanac

Let me now get back to a book to which I want you all to know. It is edited by Harry Hansen, whom I have never met. The Scripps-Howard people are the owners; but I have never heard from them and have never even hinted to them or anyone that I am mentioning the book in this column. The book has nearly 900 pages of fine print (too fine) and covers about 12,000 subjects.

Counting about 200 words to the inch and 900 pages seven and a half inches long gives me an estimate close to 1,500,000 words, including an excellent index. Although the book has been published each year in January since the Civil War, a reader can be satisfied with the last edition. The book is largely cumulative and each volume carries information for some years back. As the cost is only $2.50 for a cloth-bound copy (less for a paper-back) every reader's home can afford a new volume. If you need to look up something prior to what is contained in the latest edition, your public library must keep a file. If not, I am sure every newspaper carrying this weekly column has copies in its library.

When I look up Facts in this book I am greatly impressed by the opportunity such a book offers to a young person to get a self-made education. If you cannot go to college, or even to high school you should systematically study this book. Try absorbing three pages each evening (perhaps while "baby sitting") and you can finish the book in twelve months. Each year you could cover this same amount in less time.

One final suggestion: When applying for a position and filling out the blank covering your education, experience, etc., insert the words, "Please see below." Then write frankly somewhat as follows: "I could not afford a college education but I have spent every evening studying the World Almanac. I am willing to compete in an examination with others in your employ and have my IQ taken. Please give me an interview and see if I can be of value to you and help you quickly increase your business. I will work for nothing for three months and trust you to then pay me what I am worth to you."

Timely Quotes

We fool ourselves if we believe there will be any effective expression of the public view in such a crisis.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Otto of Kingston and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Burns, also of this city.

The Rev. James V. Keating officiated at the double ring ceremony and traditional wedding music was provided by Mrs. Frank Rafferty. Miss Eileen Reis was the soloist.

Ronald Burns was best man for his brother and the ushers were John Burns, brother of the bridegroom, Donald Draminski and Ronald Scheffel, both of Kingston.

The bride's wedding gown was of pearl luster satin. It was styled with a modified portrait neckline edged with lace and seed pearls. The sleeves were long and tapered at the wrists and the chapel length skirt featured lace appliques and back drape. A petal crown of lace and pearls held a four tiered silk illusion veil. ALLERGIC TO FIRST NAMES

Q: My daughter has been married six months and during this time we have had our son-in-law's parents to our house for dinner a few times and they have had us to their house and we have become rather friendly. As it seemed so stiff to call them Mr. and Mrs. I began calling them by their first names and I asked them to do the same. However, they still continue to call us Mr. and Mrs. I am rather hurt over this and feel that they do not consider us friends. Since they insist on calling us Mr. and Mrs. should I cease calling them by their first names and call them Mr. and Mrs. too?

A: There are still many people who dislike the use of first names and as your son-in-law's parents seem to be among these, I would advise you to call them Mr. and Mrs. until they ask you to call them Mary and John.

When Dinner Is Over

Q: When invited to dinner in someone's house, how and when do dinner guests leave the table? Is it the duty of the hostess to suggest leaving the table?

A: At a large, formal dinner the hostess looks around the table and if all have finished eating, she catches her husband's eye and both rise to leave the table, the guests following their example. At a small, informal dinner she most probably says, "Let's go into the living room for our coffee."

Candelabra on Dining Room Table

Q: I have a pair of hand cut crystal candelabra which I keep on my dining table at all times. They are lighted only at dinner time. My daughter tells me that it is improper to leave them on the table when not in use and that they should be removed when dinner is over along with the other table appointments. Is she right about this?

A: Your daughter is right. They should be removed from the table when not in use.

Ulster Unit Seeks Local Support for 1963 Heart Drive

Space medicine has given research scientists another tool in charting new knowledge of normal and abnormal hearts. It is a table that literally rides on air—now being used in a project aided by the Heart Fund and directed by Dr. Arthur J. Moss of Rochester.

To pre-test the probable reactions of astronauts in space, specialists knew that all earthly vibration had to be eliminated. Yet even when a person lies motionless, some slight tremors from the earth or the building itself shake the couch on which he stretches.

This movement, too slight to be noticed by the person himself, is easily detected by delicate machines. Naturally, it distorts the findings of these measuring devices. As with astronauts, patients whose heart action was being studied by ballistocardiograph would benefit by having this outside motion halted.

The ballistocardiograph machine traces on a graph the motion caused throughout the body as blood is thrust out into arteries by the pumping motion of the heart. In measuring this almost imperceptible movement, earthborne tremors introduce an outside element that complicates the reading.

To provide a motion-free surface, experts at the Astrospace Engineering Co. in Huntsville, Alabama, developed a table that doesn't touch the ground. It hovers just off the floor, floating on jets of air, which do not transmit the troublesome tremors.

This airborn couch is expensive — more than $6,000 — and while the aerospace budget is ample, private medical research must look beyond the laboratory to get such sums.

Here the Heart Fund in New York again proved its value. More than 27 cents of every Heart Fund dollar is devoted to cardiovascular research, to find the causes and cures of diseases of the heart.

The Heart Chapter of Ulster County and the New York State Heart Assembly sponsor medical research in the State—in addition to projects financed by the nationwide group, the American Heart Association.

Dr. Moss and his associates at the University of Rochester Medical Center currently are being aided by the New York State Heart Assembly in work that involves ballistocardiography, including funds toward purchase of the air-jet table.

Dr. Moss and his fellow investigators have recorded the recoil of the pulsating heart—and the mehanical movement of the body under the impact of ejected blood — to learn how various heart diseases show up in tracings on the graph. They have studied both normal persons and those with coronary heart disease, angina, and those who have had cardiac catheterization for valvular heart disease.

In addition, blood velocity and acceleration have been measured in animals before and after production of experimental heart attacks. The goal is greater diagnostic precision in examining human victims of heart disease.

In a message to Dr. David G. Greene, president of the New York State Heart Assembly, Dr. Moss said, "I would like to thank you and the members of the Heart Assembly for giving me and the University of Rochester Medical Center financial support to carry on this research work. I trust that it will contribute to a further understanding of human heart disease."

Dr. Greene resonded that the real thanks are due the hundreds of thousands of upstate New Yorkers who give to the Heart Fund each year. The Heart Chapter of Ulster County now is conducting the 1963 Heart Fund Campaign with the slogan, "More Will Live, the More You Give."

Norwich School Cites Newburgh Cadet for Award

A Newburgh man was among runners-up for the Norwich University Student Engineer of the Year award at the Northfield, Vt. military college, it was announced today. He is Harry T. McNear, a senior.

James M. Weller, of Lake George, a senior who is majoring in civil engineering, was named winner of the top award in ceremonies marking the college's observance of National Engineers' Week.

McNear and Thomas R. McIvor, of Denville, N. J., a junior, tied for the electrical engineering award.

Cadet Weller, who holds the rank of major in the regimental organization of the Corps of Cadets, was nominated for the honor by his fellow members of the student chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers, of which Weller himself is president. He competed against senior and junior nominees chosen by each of the three campus engineering societies — The American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, in addition to his own society. Final choice was made by an administrative committee headed by Dean Lewis E. Perry.

The ceremonies were held in connection with the visit to the Norwich campus of more than 50 high school juniors and seniors who are setting their sights on engineering careers.

West Coast Hikers Wonder If Marathon Was Worth It

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Fifty-mile hikers lay sprawled all over San Francisco's Nob Hill Friday night, wondering if their George Washington's Birthday marathon had been worth it.

Only 200 of 2,000 Finish

Blistered and bruised, they sat, stood, moaned and whispered in little groups. There were about 200 of them—about one-tenth of those who started the hike.

Kids in Bermuda shorts, loafers, sneakers, wild but worn hairdos, blue jeans, with guitars, straw hats and baseball caps mingled with late evening diners and night life patrons.

Mecca for the mostly teenaged crowd was radio station KYA, located on the side of Nob Hill. A KYA disc jockey, Tommy Saunders, had proposed the long walk up the San Francisco Peninsula on his program.

He joined the hiking group and by 10 o'clock Friday night he was in St. Francis Memorial Hospital. Dr. Francis J. Charlton said Saunders was suffering from fatigue.

Police estimated the hiking high schoolers at about 2,000 in all. They started at the gate of Santa Clara University near San Jose at 6 a.m. The more rugged began struggling into San Francisco after dark.

Poses Highway Problem

An accompanying proud mother said, "It's 69 miles from the gate to here. Not 50. I know, I clocked it on my car speedometer."

During the day, highway patrolmen said they were getting frantic about the whole idea of the hiking fad. "The congestion is getting unbelievable," one officer said. "The trouble is they walk with the cars."

Dawn Unfolds

district was destroyed by the quake.

On board the first mercy flight from Wheelus Air Base to Cyrenaica was a team of medical technicians headed by Capt. Barry Shaklan of Hillside, N.J. These first Americans to reach the stricken city teamed up with Libyans and British to carry out rescue missions during the night.

Included in the team were S.Sgt. Robert Bennett of Portland, Ore., S.Sgt. Delbert Ray of Groves, Tex., airman 1C James Dyson of Washington, D.C., and Airman 1C Loch Williamson of Carrollton, Ga.

Gives Birth, Comforts Others

A C47 piloted by Maj. Peter Scaandalis of Yuba City, Calif., flew medical supplies gathered by the Libyan government.

Two helicopters from Wheelus Air Base left for the stricken area early Friday, making refueling stops during the night at U.S. installations along the coast.

Operating from Benina Airport near Benghazi, a copter piloted by Capt. David Pittard brought the first of the critically injured to medical facilities in Benghazi at 2:00 p.m. Friday.

In the midst of the turmoil at the military hospital, a young Libyan mother gave birth to twins, and then turned to offer comfort and sympathy to the injured.

Pneumonia Is Fatal To Upstate Women

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP)—A coroner says pneumonia caused the death of one and probably two women from the same household and left the husband of one critically ill today.

Miss Margaret Leahy, 47, was found dead Friday in her bedroom at the home in Binghamton, and her cousin, Mrs. Lillian Nolan, 67, was unconscious.

Mrs. Nolan was taken to Wilson Memorial Hospital in nearby Johnson City, where she died shortly after arrival.

Mrs. Nolan's husband, Cornelius, also 67, was admitted to the same hospital Tuesday suffering from pneumonia.

The two women were discovered by Mrs. Nolan's daughter, Mrs. Mary Wetmore.

The coroner, Dr. Vincent Maddi, reported that Miss Leahy died of "an apparently virulent type" of pneumonia and that Mrs. Nolan's death probably was caused by the same disease.

Gives Reds Warning

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A 25-year-old surgical technician who served for eight months in Laos says Communists are taking over the Southeast Asian country because the natives "don't care."

Reginald Gordon of Schenectady, said Friday the natives "just want things to go along, and they want to live their lives without fighting."

"It doesn't matter to them whether its communism or democracy of something else," he said. "Right now communism is strongest."

Gordon, who returned from Laos Friday, was a surgical technical at Ban Houei Sai, the last remaining hospital of three established in Laos by the late Dr. Thomas Doooley.

Form Hiking Club Object: To Scale Catskill Peaks

A new hiking club, the "Catskill 3500 Club," has been organized in the Poughkeepsie area. The club will introduce its members to mountain peaks and areas not usually visited by the average hiker in the Catskills. It will also encourage winter climbing.

Members of the organization committee are William Spangenberger, Nyack; Daniel Smiley, Lake Mohonk; Gunter Hauptman, Brad Whiting and Mrs. Charles Locke, Poughkeepsie.

After a careful study the committee has drafted an official list naming 34 Catskill peaks which are over 3,500 feet high. The list is based on critera set by the committee that there be at least a 250 foot drop between peaks or a peak must be at least one-half mile away from others on the list.

Membership in the club is open to anyone who climbs on foot to the summits of the mountains on the list. In addition, members must have climbed four mountains between December 21 and March 21 when snow conditions prevail. The winter peaks are Slide Mountain, Blackhead Mountain, Panther Mountain, and Balsam Mountain on the Pine Hill-Eagle Mountain Trail.

Charter memberships will also be awarded to those who qualify by Dec. 31, 1965. When a hiker has completed the list he will send in the dates of each climb as application for membership. Credit will be given to all climbs made before the organization of the club if the approximate date is given. If a hiker has fulfilled the requirements an insignia of the club will be sent to him.

Hikers in the Poughkeepsie area have started working toward membership and the committee anticipates that others in New York and surrounding states will also become interested.

The official list and organization rules may be obtained from Mrs. Charles Locke, 95 Delafield Street, Poughkeepsie.

Wagner Dismisses DiLorenzo From City Tax Office

NEW YORK (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner has dismissed Ross J. DiLorenzo, a Brooklyn Democratic district leader, from a $12,500-a-year membership on the city's Tax Commission.

The mayor gave no explanation of the action, announced Friday.

But it is known that DiLorenzo supported Assemblyman Stanley Steingut in his successful fight for Kings County (Brooklyn) Democratic leader against Assembly Minority Leader Anthony J. Travia, who had the mayor's backing.

Wagner said he would swear in Thomas Artale Monday as DiLorenzo's successor. Artale is a Kings County assistant district attorney.

Income Questionnaire Cards for VA Are Due

E. J. Raus, acting manager of the Albany Veterans Administration Regional Office, today stated that there are still over 500 annual income questionnaire cards that have not been returned by veterans and widows of deceased veterans.

The law makes it mandatory that completed questionnaires be received by the Veterans Administration from each pension recipient and failure to return the questionnaire will result in suspension of pension payments effective with the check due at the end of February.

Mr. Raus urged those beneficiaries who have not filed their questionnaire to do so immediately.

If any assistance is needed in completing the questionnaires such assistance may be obtained by a visit or call to the Contact Division of the Veterans Administration Albany Regional Office located at the Westgate Shopping Center in Albany.

Congress Readies Knife

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's tax program is still undergoing congressional diagnosis and is yet to be wheeled into the operating room. But already one critical item has been marked for major surgery.

And with it may go some of the proposed tax reductions.

This item is the proposal to put a floor under personal deductions like interest, local taxes and charitable contributions. It would allow deductions only to the extent their total exceeds 5 per cent of income.

Cross Connections

"We are all aware of the increasing number of products and appliances placed on the market every day which require plumbing systems for the supply of clean and pure water and for the disposal of waste," he added. "In the home, we have modern lavatories, bathtubs, showers, electric dishwashers, automatic laundries, etc. In industry we have meter-used tanks, aspirators, chemical carrying pipes and the like. In eating and drinking establishments we have dishwashing equipments, soda fountains, etc. In hospitals, we have bedpan washers, sterilizers, hydrotheraputic and other equipment. All these devices and implements should be and must be installed and maintained by skilled and competent plumbers." The inspector says that one of the greatest dangers that can affect us today is the danger of disease that lies in the possible contamination of water that we drink. He added that in many of our homes or factories in public buildings the water within the plumbing systems can easily be dangerously contaminated by the installation of cross connection. He also said there is no possible way to be warned against drinking water that has been suddenly contaminated through back-siphonage or cross-connection. Sickness may be the first and only indications that the water within the plumbing system has been polluted. While escaping gas can be detected by smell, and the danger of an electrical short circuit can often be both smelled and seen, there is no positive way of detecting contaminated water. Even though water may be heavily polluted, more frequently than not, taste and smell will fail to detect it.

The inspector says the first step in the battle against waterborne disease was won when water supplies for cities and communities were made pure at their sources. Modern sand filtration and chlorination processes were perfected, introduced and widely accepted. Today, water purification plants are considered as essential to public safety as traffic signals . . . and most city water is rendered pure and safe to drink—at its source. Though our water is pure at the source, we must protect it at all times. The principal focus of attention in performing this task should be on the plumbing system within individual buildings and homes. Such systems must be properly installed and properly equipped with protective devices or approved fixtures so that there can be no possible chance of backflow due to a cross connection. The inspector states it is obviously ridiculous to protect the water supply from its original source to the building, and then to subject it to the various hazards of contamination from a poorly designed and installed plumbing system.

Kelly said, the average American of today has a simple, childlike faith in the purity of his drinking water supply. Without thought to possible danger, he opens a faucet and drinks what comes out. What comes out is usually pure and safe water so our abiding faith in our drinking water is usually justified. The people of the City of Kingston through the efforts of their health, water and plumbing departments are blessed with pure drinking water, an asset of intangible value, Kelly advises.

Freeman Slated To Address Farm Union in March

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Farmers Union says it considers this a "do-or-die" year for farm legislation designed to strengthen government's role in helping farmers attain price and supply stability.

The Farmers Union long has helped make and promote farm programs advanced by Democrats and has opposed those of Republicans. It has warmly endorsed the Kennedy admnistration's policy of seeking stabilization of farm prices and supplies through producer - approved production controls.

Memoriam

In loving memory of Robert A. Loeffler, who passed away one year ago today, February 23, 1962.

What we would give to see you smile
And sit and talk with you awhile.

To part with you so kind and dear.
Day and night we think of you
The things you used to say and do
We wonder why you had to die
Without a chance to say goodby.

Holds Admiration Of All Youngsters After 231 Years

By MARY ELLEN WOLFE
Dayton Journal Herald Reporter

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—After 231 years, George Washington is still a hero in the eyes of today's small fry, but their candid way of telling about George Washington and his legend would make another best seller "First Family" record.

This 1963 concept of George Washington consists of excerpts pieced together from essays written by students at Beavercreek's Fairbrook School.

Cites Birthday

"In Virginia in 1732 on Feb. 22, a boy named George Washington was born. As he grew older, he had a birthday." (Dana Reighley, 4th grade).

"When he was a boy, he always told the truth. Well, almost always." (Randolph Ison, 5th grade).

"When his father asked who cut down the cherry tree, he said 'I cannot tell a lie, I did it with my trusty hatchet' ". (Robert Dover, 1st grade.)

"George Washington had a wealthy family. When he grew up, he got married to a wealthy widow named Mary Ball." (Tim Minch, 3rd grade).

Disbursed Own Funds

"When he was a general in the war, he often paid his men himself because there wasn't any money in the treasury. At Valley Forge that horrible winter, he went to this lady's house to see if they could bed down in her yard. The lady said yes and then she asked him to come in and go to bed, but he said not until my men are comfortable," (Don Sagraves, 6th grade).

"I know to myself that he is the greatest man I ever read about. George Washington was a man who loved his country and gave everything for it. He was the man who couldn't give up until he couldn't fight any more." (Roy Finley, 5th grade.)

"Today as we see Old Glory wave proudly over our ship at sea and our nation's cities we can give credit to Gen. Washington who cared to sketch a flag, form a committee, and have it made while the 13 colonies were still British subjects." (Penny Rice, 6th grade.)

"He died on Dec. 14, 1799 and was buried at Mount Vernon, which had been his home for many years. Washington's picture is on your quarter." (Mike Ozias, 4th grade.)

Two Local Girls Win Homemaker Preliminary Test

Lea Ann Nelson of Kingston High School and Patricia E. Stidd of Rondout Valley Central High, Stone Ridge were named winners this week in the 1963 Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow, and became eligible for one of 102 scholarships totaling $110,000.

Each girl ranked first at her school in the knowledge and attitude test given senior girls Dec. 4. Her paper has been entered in competition with those of other state high school winners for state-wide honors.

The State Homemaker of Tomorrow will be named in the spring. She will receive a $1,500 scholarship from General Mills, sponsor of the program. A $500 award will be made to the second highest ranking Homemaker of Tomorrow in the state. The school of each state winner will receive a set of Encyclopedia Britannica.

Later, State Homemakers of Tomorrow with their advisors will enjoy an expense-paid educational tour of New York City, Washington, D. C. and Colonial Williamsburg, Va., which will culminate with the naming of the 1963 All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow.

The national winner's scholarship will be raised to $5,000 with second, third and fourth place winners being granted $4,000, $3,000 and $2,000 scholarships, respectively.

Prepared and scored by Science Research Associates, Chicago, the knowledge and attitude test is the basis for naming of local and state Homemakers of Tomorrow. Personal observation and interviews are factors in the national judging.

The 1963 Betty Crocker Search reached another all-time high in enrollment, with 410,466 girls in 12,964 schools participating. Since the program started nine years ago, approximately three million girls have enrolled, and, including this year, scholarship awards will approach the million dollar mark.

Will Integrate Baltimore Cinema

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—A Baltimore movie theater will open its doors to both Negroes and whites today as a result of six days of picketing by college students.

Owners of the Northwood Theater agreed Thursday after a conference with Mayor Philip Goodman to integrate the movie house.

Students from Morgan State College, Johns Hopkins University and Goucher College had staged mass demonstrations since last Friday.

Police responded with mass arrests and more than 413 persons were jailed.

About 340 chose to remain in jail rather than post more than $200,000 accumulated bail on charges of disorderly conduct on trespassing.

After the agreement was reached, attorney Robert Watts got an order from Judge Ansel Sodaro releasing the imprisoned students on their own recognizance.

Cornell Club Opens New Quarters in NYC

Ambassador Arthur H. Dean, chairman of Cornell University's Board of Trustees and former chief of the U. S. delegation to the International Disarmament Conference in Geneva, today presided at the official opening of new quarters for the Cornell Club of New York. Cornell president Deane W. Malott and H. Victor Grohmann, president of the club, assisted in ceremonies highlighting the club's 74th anniversary. The new club occupies four full floors in the recently completed building at 155 East 50th Street in the heart of Manhattan and is a completely self-contained unit. The club will operate its own kitchen facilities and in addition to a men's bar and ladies dining room, a grill and main dining room are provided. There are also several private dining rooms to use for meetings, receptions and banquets. Spacious lounges, an exercise room, a library and television room provide additional opportunities for member recreation.

Over 40 bedrooms are available for both permanent and transient residency, with certain areas designed for family use. Cornell has 106,000 living alumni and it is expected that many will use the New York club during trips to the city, with particular emphasis during the expected influx of visitors for the 1964 New York World's Fair.

The Club had occupied quarters in the Hotel Barclay since 1939.

Assails Chamber Stand Opposing More Jobless Pay

Joseph Amato, president of the Brickhandler's Union, Local 1467, in a statement received by The Freeman today, criticized recent action by the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce in publicly opposing passage of the labor department bill, A. I. 409.

Amato's statement follows:

The Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce which purports to be interested in the welfare of our community has done a disservice in publicly opposing the passage of the labor department bill, A.I., 409, which would establish permanent stand-by legislation for temporary extension of unemployment insurance benefits from 26 to 39 weeks.

It was my impression that the Chamber was primarily concerned with promoting a better climate for business in the community and for encouraging people to make this their home. It was also my impression that the Chamber stayed out of purely political matters.

Obviously, what the Chamber had in mind in opposing the legislation was to discourage unemployment chiselers. It fails to recognize that two wrongs do not make one right. There are many people in this community, especially in the brickhandling and construction business who, through no fault of their own and through circumstances beyond their control, may well be unable to find employment within the original 26 week benefit limitation now on the books. Part of the reason for the situation they find themselves in is that the State of New York does not encourage the purchase of brick and building supplies from state manufacturers and there is a long history of out-of-state purchasing by the State of New York.

If the chamber were truly interested in the welfare of the community they would realize that opposition to the legislation might bring about these results. First, by curtailment of the benefits, the purchasing power in the community would be equally reduced, and secondly these curtailments would throw many more people on welfare which would result in additional tax burden to the residents of our community.

The results which the chamber seems interested in, namely cutting down on the chiseling, would be obtained from better policing and administration of the unemployment insurance law and not from taking away the full coverage which the law was intended to give.

The Brickhandler's Union supports the temporary extension of unemployment insurance benefits not only for the sake of its membership, but for the sake of the community at large.

Appointed Deputy Commissioner of State Health

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Dr. Andrew C. Fleck Jr. of Troy was promoted today to deputy commissioner of the State Health Department.

Dr. Hollis S. Ingraham, the new commissioner, named him to the $23,309-a-year post to succeed Dr. Granville W. Larimore, who was moved up Thursday to first deputy commissioner.

Both promotions stemmed from Gov. Rockefeller's appointment of Ingraham last month to succeed Dr. Herman E. Hilleboe as health commissioner. Ingraham had been first deputy.

Ingraham took over the top post officially Thursday upon Hilleboe's retirement, and Rockefeller sent the appointment to the Senate for confirmation.

At the same time, the governor named Hilleboe to the State Public Health Council for a term running through 1966. He succeeds Dr. Gladwell B. Esselstyn of Claverack, whose term expired. The post pays $1,796 a year.

Return to Fire Scene

Poughkeepsie firemen were sent back to 507 Main Street, that city for a third time last night, to extinguish minor fires that rekindled in the debris. An owner of the three-story brick mercantile-apartment building estimated the fire loss at $50,000 or more. The fire, Thursday night, was that city's fourth major fire since Jan. 12. Eight firemen were treated for minor injuries or frost bites.

Actually the connecting breezeway between the house and attached garage the kitchen is at the rear of the house. Two doors provide ready access to the yard.

Sleeping Area

With the bedrooms grouped together as they are in "The Affront" the sleeping area is set apart from the working and living sections of the house. This arrangement assures greater privacy and quiet for the bedrooms. The central hallway is so placed, too, that you can go from one bedroom to another or to the bath without passing tthrough the living room.

Because the kitchen is strictly a work center no space is allotted for a breakfast nook. However, the dining bay is but a few steps from the kitchen and you'll find it an easy matter to serve breakfast there as well as your family's other meals.

Kitchen-Garage Wing

The main house measures 38 by 27 feet; add another 31 feet for the kitchen-garage wing. Cubage of the house is 25,600 feet. While you can build this house on a 60-foot lot you'll need a deep one to accommodate the wing. This will look most attractive if set back a good distance from the street or road.

Although brick was used for the exterior finish of the house selected as an illustration, you can use shingles or clapboards with equal success. If you select wood for the exterior contrasting trim can be used very effectively.

Blueprints Available

Complete plans and specifications for this house and all other "Home of the Week" designs are available at moderate cost.

Stops Bleeding

While shellac is seldom recommended these days for finishing furniture because of its sensitivity to alcohol and water, it still has a valuable function in some types of furniture refinishing. If you are planning to use a light enamel over a previously stained and varnished surface—and this goes for woodwork as well as furniture—a single coat of white shellac will prevent the stain from bleeding through the enamel and turning it pink.

Dolls Have Won the Hearts Of All Throughout History

Almost every girl and many boys—at least when they are little—enjoy dolls. Even if they don't actually play with them, they enjoy having them around as mascots or in collections.

Some children have dolls that might seem strange to us. Dolls have been made of bottles which once held perfume or olives. They are filled with sand, and covered with material. A head of cloth or wax may be fastened on and a pair of arms, and presto!—a doll.

In England, in a poor village, a mother might make a doll from bread dough. It is fashioned with arms and legs, with the fingers and toes indicated with marks of a knife. A cut made for a mouth, a lump of dough for a nose and currants to serve for eyes, and when the doll is baked and cooled, it is ready to be dressed just like any other doll.

The famous singer, Adelina Patti, started to appear in public at a very early age. One time her manager had promised to get a certain kind of doll for her, but he forgot. The large hall was crowded with people waiting for little Adelina to sing, but she was so disappointed that she did not get the doll, that she burst into tears. The manager went out and purchased the doll, and the little girl smiled again and "sang like an angel" while the doll sat nearby in the wings.

One of Thomas Edison's inventions was a doll which had a device like a phonograph inside which played a dozen nursery rhymes. He later learned that another company had a right to manufacture toys with phonographs, so he abandoned the making of them.

Queen Victoria had a collection of 132 wooden dolls fashioned after famous people. Each of these had a name and the name was entered in precise handwriting in a book or catalogue.

Each year, Japanese children gather up all dolls that cannot even be repaired by a doll hospital, being too broken or beyond repair and hold a burial for them at the school playground. They are all left in one grave and a stone marker erected in their memory.

He Learned About Elephants In the Very Hardest Way

Surprises came fast to Capt. Graham Hope, a British army officer, when he was transferred to India. He may have thought he knew something about elephants, but when he was sent out to take command of an elephant-drawn battery that was maintained for a short time in the Indian army, he soon found he had a lot to learn about the big beasts.

One day a new elephant was added to the contingent. Until her first day on parade, she couldn't have possibly seen any of the others. But after the ceremonies were over, as soon as the harnesses had been taken off, she and another cow elephant made a dash for each other. They twined their trunks, thumped and bumped each other and gurgled and squeaked like old school girls. Captain Hope hadn't a doubt that a jungle friendship was being renewed.

There was one elephant in the battery who dearly loved a joke. Captain Hope thought she had the proper spirit until the day she picked him for her victim.

One day she and the rest of the elephants were returning from an afternoon's romp in the lake. All were feeling very gay.

The English officer happened to come riding up on his horse just then. When he was about 50 yards away, the joking elephant stopped, looked at him for a second, and then cocked her ears and rolled up her trunk very tightly. Another instant and she came charging toward him, trumpeting like a wild bull elephant.

Captain Hope and his horse didn't wait for her to reach them. They bolted like greased lightning.

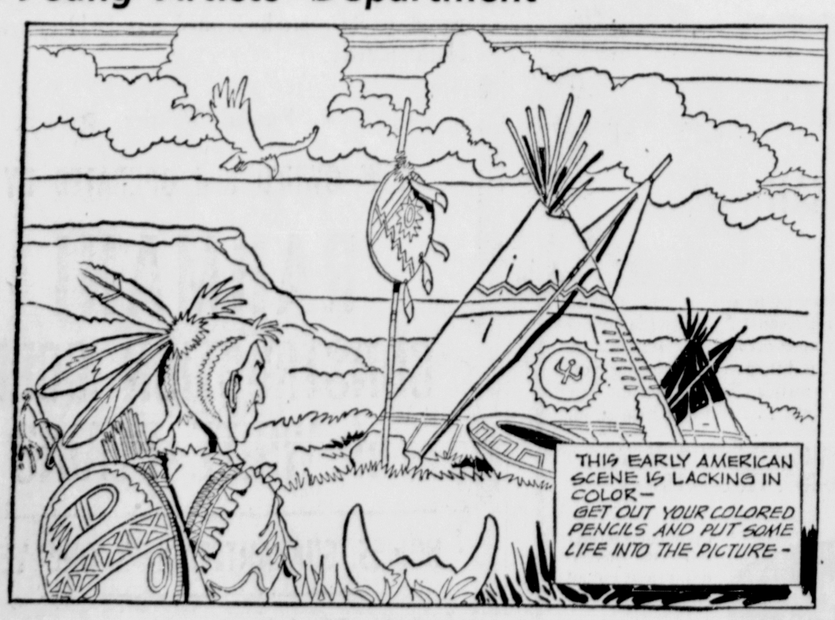

But when the captain pulled up and looked around, there was that madcap elephant capering about and waving her trunk and making all sorts of shrill, cackling squeaks. It is the way an elephant laughs.

Captain Hope figured that the merry pachyderm knew all along that she couldn't catch him and his horse, but she wanted to scare them stiff and see them run. She certainly succeeded!

Her prank made all the other elephants laugh in the same way. Later, when the captain watched her being fed that evening, she let out an occasional squeak as if she were still chuckling.

Hall of Fame overlooks the Harlem and Hudson rivers.

New York's Hall of Fame Honors Great Americans

The Hall of Fame at New York University, New York, is more famous than many of those whom it honors. Everyone has heard of it. But the general public does not know some whose names are found here.

The attraction does everything it can to acquaint people with the Americans elected to it because of their achievements. It especially takes an interest in school children. Lecturers regularly conduct classes through it.

The boys and girls are taken along the open-air colonnade that overlooks the Harlem and Hudson rivers and the New Jersey Palisades. They see here sculptured bronze busts of our country's great on marble pedestals between stone columns.

They easily recognize some. These include likenesses of Abraham Lincoln, George Washington, Thomas A. Edison and others whose pictures appear in school books.

But few can identify Josiah Willard Gibbs. The lecturer explains that he was a mathematical physicist who worked out the theory of thermodynamics. He also comments that thermodynamics is the science that studies certain things about heat.

He goes on to the next bust and makes any explanations that are needed.

The portrait busts of 85 men and women wind for a quarter of a mile through the colonnade. One views sculptures of Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Jefferson, Patrick Henry, Samuel Morse, Mark Twain, Stephen C. Foster, Edgar Allan Poe and other well-known persons.

These words greet visitors on the entrance gate: "Enter with Joy that those within have lived."

Hall of Fame began in 1901. Dr. Henry Mitchell MacCracken of New York University founded it. A wealthy woman, Helen Gould, gave most of the money for the building.

Dr. McCracken wrote this when it was dedicated:

"The Hall of Fame will teach youth that leaders in science and scholarship may be as great as military and naval heroes."

Know Who Cleveland Abbe Was?--- Does 'Weather Bureau' Give a Clue?

If the teacher should ask her class today to tell her who Cleveland Abbe was, probably not a single boy or girl would raise a hand. But Mr. Abbe is very important in all our lives today for he was the man who started our weather bureau. He is called the father of the weather bureau. He was born in New York City 120 years ago, and today we probably use his bureau oftener than any other in Washington.

Suppose tomorrow is the day of the big game. It looks a little cloudy when you wake up. You rush downstairs to get the paper before anyone else. You turn quickly to the page that contains the weather predictions. "FAIR AND COLD SATURDAY. (By the U. S. Weather Bureau.)

"Good!" you say to yourself. Just for good measure you could check with the radio. "TOMORROW WILL BE FAIR AND COLD," a firm voice assures you. "THIS IS FROM THE WEATHER BUREAU AT WASHINGTON."

But it hasn't always been this easy. Back 100 years ago, you had to predict your own weather. When mother wanted to know whether tomorrow was going to be a good wash day, she might say to one of the boys, "I wish you'd get up early tomorrow, son, and go out and see how the spider webs are." She knew, and so did he, that if they were scattered all over the grass and thickly spangled with morning dew, and if the dandelion blossoms were wide open, it was going to be a grand day for anything. But if there were no webs and the dandelions were tightly closed, she might as well wait until Tuesday to do the washing.

Or suppose the boys came in late to supper from a long walk and told father they had run into a couple of woodchucks. Father, and indeed the whole family, would be anxious to know if "the cute little critters" were lean or fat. And if they said they were as fat as butter balls and that their burrows looked bigger than usual, they all knew they were in for a hard winter.

They watched all such signs; if the corn husks were tighter, if the squirrels were burying more nuts than usual, if the big work horses were growing thicker coats, if the birds were flying south earlier. There were a great many of these weather signs, and when they all pointed to a cold winter, father would say, "We'd better start for the wood lot tomorrow, boys. We are going to need a lot of firewood this winter."

The boys would groan aloud. They knew it meant that after the trees had been cut and sawed into stove lengths, it would be up to them to pile it in the wood shed and bring big armfuls of it in every morning to fill the wood boxes.

And the funny thing is that they had just as much faith in their signs then as we do today in Cleveland Abbe's weather bureau.

Help for Forgetters

Want to remind yourself of those important things coming up on the school calendar, and those also important things coming up on the home calendar? Make yourself a personal reminder and fasten it on the door of your room. Here's how!

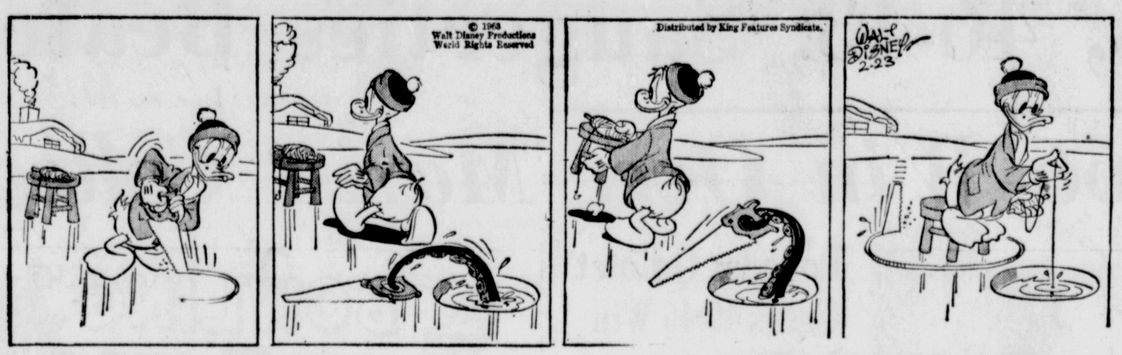

Start with the side or end of a grocery carton. Glue a big white blotter on one side of the cardboard (you can buy large desk blotters at the five and 10 or any stationer's). Trim with a pasted-on border of any cloth you have around the house. Use scraps of any new material—this will do very well. Use pinking shears to cut the border and then glue or paste around the edge of the reminder board.

A loop of ribbon scotch taped to the back of the reminder makes a handy hanger. Thumb tacks will hold your reminder notes firmly in place and can be removed and used over and over again.

LIFE ON THE HITHER SIDE OF THE IRON CURTAIN

Russia's "angry young poet" Yevgeny Yevtushenko, the intellectual idol of Western-oriented Soviet youth, wrote about his visit to England in an article for the Literaturnaya Gazyeta. He told of seeing the Twist danced (and liked it) but was a bit dubious about some Western mores.

On the mannered English, he said, "Nobody can compete with their politeness and social manners. Were an international school of politeness established, the English would be the best teachers"

He had kind words in general for the British but said they are usually not as easy to talk to as, for instance, Americans. Trying to describe Britons to his Soviet readers, Yevtushenko said:

"They are more vague in their answers and more nebulous in their definitions. They are very fond of phrases like 'maybe' and 'it seems.'"

Yevtushenko recounted how, in the midst of a downpour, he had mentioned to an Englishman that it was raining.

He said the Englishman first replied, "It looks like it is," but considering this too forthright, quickly changed it to "Apparently it is."

NFA Stops Kingston Cagers, 46-43; Saugerties Beaten

New Paltz College Scores 72-66 Win Over Marist College

Goldies Keep Slim Pennant Hopes Alive

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Bob (the wrong) Thomas spoiled another of those late Kingston High rallies with an intercepted pass in the final 26 seconds as Newburgh nipped the visitors, 46-43, last night in the Hilly City.

Trailing by a point, 44-43, after chopping eight markers from a nine point deficit, the Maroon players were in possession at mid-court. Thomas intercepted a pass. He was fouled with five seconds to play and his two successes from the charity line decided the issue of the sloppy, but close tilt.

Both sides had trouble putting the ball through the hoop. They were also guilty of many infractions. A two-week layoff by Newburgh and Kingston's bruising battle with Monticello earlier in the week could be cited as reasons why both sides looked so bad in spots. However, it was a nip and tuck affair most of the way.

There were three deadlocks in the first half before the host side finally edged to a two-point margin, 24-22, at the interim. The defending champions led the rest of the way, except for a brief instant in the third period, when a pair of jump shots by Ron Thomas knotted the game, 26-26.

Go Ahead for Good

Wayne Conine retaliated twice for the Goldies and from then on they were never headed, though the losers almost pulled it out with one of their patented finishes.

Trailing by nine markers, 42-33, with 5:20 to play, the locals started to hit. Finally, a pair of free throws by Larry Marcus razored the edge to, 44-43, with 1:40 to go. The crowd, which almost filled the huge gym, was now warming to the occasion.

However, little did the KHS fans realize that the visitors wouldn't score again. The Goldies started to freeze the ball. However, a dribble got away and went out of bounds, giving the locals one more chance.

Last Chance Fails

This is where the NFA Thomas came into the spotlight. His interception was the last gasp for Kingston and his two foul shots five seconds from the end sealed the lid.

Ron Thomas had 13 points to pace Kingston but this wasn't one of his better nights. Larry Marcus, blanked for almost three periods, finished with 11. He was instrumental in the comeback near the end. Conine scored 16 and Ed Soro 14 for the Goldies, who are now 11-4 for the season and 7-2 in the league.

Kingston has an 8-8 record and will host Our Lady of Lourdes in the home finale on Tuesday. The Maroon cagers close next Friday at Middletown.

Kingston Teams Win in Cage Play

St. Mary's and St. Joseph's of Kingston were among the winners in first round games of the first annual Lourdes Invitational Basketball tournament. Games in the double elimination tourney were played yesterday at the Lourdes High School gym in Poughkeepsie. Boys up to 15 years of age are eligible to compete.

Hawks to Close Season Tonight; Have 14-5 Mark

Holding off several threats by the home side in the second half, the Hawks of New Paltz State nipped Marist College, 72-66, before a near sellout crowd last night at the Poughkeepsie High School gym.

The victory was the 14th of the year for Coach Doug Sheppard's cagers. They have lost only five times and now possess a shiny six game victory string.

This one was a tussle all the way. The home side gave an all-out performance in its bid to upset the tourney bound Hawks. Marist caught the Hawks in a cold spell early in the contest and moved to a quick, 25-13, lead.

The visitors started to close the gap after the 15 minute mark and finally edged ahead, 30-28, at halftime.

Weiss Fouls Out

New Paltz led most of the second half but never by more than a couple of baskets. When big Fred Weiss of Marist fouled out with eight minutes to play, the Hawks had a slim lead of one point, 53-52. The Red Foxes stayed in contention the rest of the way, thanks to some good marksmanship by Dennis O'Brien.

O'Brien finished with 20 points for Marist. Weiss had only 12, one of his lowest outputs of the season. Joe Facciolli, Bob Dillman, Fred Sadler and Al Hazelton were in double figures for the Hawks.

New Paltz will conclude its regular season tonight with a contest at Drew University. Pairings for the State University tournament will be made next week and a victory at Drew will enhance the Hawks' chances of earning one of the top seeded berths.

'Rookie' Coach Berra Is Learning New Job

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Yogi Berra, who has become one of baseball's legends in his 16 seasons as all-star catcher and sometime outfielder with the New York Yankees, has reverted to rookie status.

Yogi is breaking in as first base coach for the Yankees at their spring training layout at Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Actually, at $45,000 Berra is expected to do more than direct traffic at first this season.

He'll be carried on the roster as an active player, acting as the Yanks' No. 3 catcher behind Elston Howard and John Blanchard, and also as a reserve outfielder and prime left-handed pinch hitter.

But right now the rotund veteran is concentrating on his new job as coach, pointing toward the Yankees' 30 exhibition games for some handy pre-season seasoning.

"I'll try to make all my mistakes down here, before the season opens," Berra says.

"I have to learn how to help some of our faster men get that extra base on hits to the outfield . . . once I have studied the outfielders on the other clubs and know their arms and their speed in getting to the ball, I can help our guys more."

As a catcher Berra was a nonstop talker, keeping up running conversations with opposing batters, umpires, batboys and anyone else handy. As a coach, that's a habit he won't have to break. He'll always have a built-in captive audience of one—the other club's first baseman.

The Los Angeles Angels are going to try a new training aid gimmick today—instant television. A video tape recording of their workout will be made over a closed circuit and played back immediately.

Manager Bill Rigney says the system could have "intriguing possibilities for analyzing hitting or pitching form and other aspects of the game."

Also on the mechanical front, the Washington Senators stepped up their training Friday with the pitchers practicing bunts against the pitching machines and the catchers going after pop ups fired out of a bazooka-like gun.

Two of last season's most celebrated casualties, outfielder Al Kaline of the Detroit Tigers and third baseman Gene Freese of the Cincinnati Reds, have reported to their camps ahead of time.

Kaline, after a run in the chilly winds at Lakeland, Fla., Friday said he felt no ill-effects from the broken collarbone that sidelined him for two months last year.

Freese, who suffered a broken right ankle in spring training a year ago, is giving the ankle a thorough testing at Tampa, Fla.

Tiger Solid Choice To Beat Gene Fullmer

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—World middleweight champion Dick Tiger of Nigeria battles to keep his boxing crown tonight against the challenge of the dedicated brawler he whipped to win the title—Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah.

"I'm confident I can beat him again," the 33-year-old champion declared before their 15-round nationally televised bout starting at 10 p.m., EST, in the Las Vegas Convention Center.

"If I lose, it will be my last fight," declared Fullmer, who at 31 had not been defeated in 17 fights before tangling with Tiger in San Francisco last Oct. 23. "I feel confident. If I didn't, I would not want to try it."

Odds of 3-1 favoring Tiger make him a stronger favorite than he was in the San Francisco bout when he climbed into the ring a 9-5 choice in the battle for the World Boxing Association version of the 160-pound title.

At that time, Paul Pender of Massachusetts was recognized as the champion in his home state, New York and Europe. But on Nov. 9, he was stripped of the title in all but Massachusetts for failure to defend it. So now Tiger is recognized as champion in all but the one state.

"I think this fight will be tougher than the first one," the champion commented. "Fullmer will be coming all out. He wants the title back as badly as I want to keep it."

After watching movies of the first fight, Fullmer and Marv Jenson, his manager, devised a new strategy for this 15-round bout.

"If we didn't make some changes, Gene would get beaten again," Jenson said.

Although the new plan wasn't disclosed, the ex-champion is expected to carry his hands lower and not rush into the attack as rapidly as he did last time. For it was the solid socking counterpunches from Tiger that spelled defeat before when Fullmer finished with cuts over both eyes and a bloody nose.

"I'll do the same as I did last time," said Tiger who had no movies. "I'll wait and see. If Fullmer does have something new I can meet it."

Scoring this time will be on Nevada's 5-point must system with the winner of each round getting five points and the loser four or less, depending on his showing.

Each boxer gets five points for an even stanza. A referee and two judges, to be announced at ringside, render the decision.

Lourdes Quintet Gains 49-46 Win In DCSL Contest

Our Lady of Lourdes ended the Saugerties High cage season on a disappointing note by triumphing, 49-46, last night in Poughkeepsie. Coach Bud Smith's cagers finished with a 6-12 mark, one of the worst since the personable Smith has been at the school.

The home side, which finished its first season in the DCSL in a tie for third with Arlington, jumped to an 11-6 first period margin and then held it the rest of the way. The Sawyers made several threatening gestures but failed to catch the Warriors.

Garry Henderson and Mark Palinski had 10 points each for Lourdes. Paul Buytkins rimmed 10 for Saugerties.

The Sawyer jayvee won a well-played prelim, 58-52. Fred Seither scored 25, Frank Serravello 15 and Bruce Owens 12 for the winners.

Rice Student Expelled for Alleged Bribe Attempt

HOUSTON (AP) — The Southwest Conference, rocked last year by an investigation of alleged game fixing by basketball officials was jarred again today with the report that a Rice University student had been expelled for offering two players a bribe to shave points.

Two Rice basketball players, Herb Steinkamp and Dick Cramer reported the student tried to bribe them to hold the margin down to less than 14 points in the game with Baylor Tuesday night.

The university issued a brief statement Friday night that "a student has been dismissed from Rice University. He attempted to bribe two basketball players into shaving the score on the Baylor game. This was reported immediately by the players to Rice authorities."

Johnny Frankie, Rice basketball coach, said the matter has been referred to the FBI.

Athletic Director Jess Neely said "as far as I know they (the players) were approached Feb. 14 and they reported the bribe attempts to Frankie the next day."

That was the day before Rice's game in Dallas with Southern Methodist last Saturday.

Frankie said the players were told:

"The point shaving in the Baylor game depended on whether we won at Dallas. If we beat SMU by 15 to 18 points, then we'd be a big favorite against Baylor here.

"He said he'd bet $40,000 and give my guards $500 apiece to slow down the Baylor game and win by less than 14 points," Frankie said.

Rice lost the SMU game at Dallas, 86-79, and beat Baylor, 74-70.

Steinkamp exceeded his Southwest Conference average of 11.9 points, scoring 22 points against both SMU and Baylor. Cramer scored three points against SMU and six against Baylor. He has been averaging 6.3 points a game as a substitute.

Cramer is a Bellaire, Tex., high school graduate. Steinkamp is from Venedy, Ill.

The investigation of alleged game fixing last year in the conference was carried on by a legislative committee. No charges ever were filed but two officials were excluded from the list for this season's basketball race.

New Records Are Expected In AAU Meet

NEW YORK (AP)—The burning question of just how high is up in the pole vault may be answered tonight when world record holder Pentti Nikula of Finland takes on four other 16-footers in the highlight of the National AAU indoor track and field championships in Madison Square Garden.

But if Nikula falters any of a half-dozen other stars could steal the spotlight.

They include Jim Beatty, who set the indoor record of 3:58.6 for the mile just a week ago, Valery Brumel of Russia, out to make amends for his only high jump loss to John Thomas two weeks ago, Gary Gubner of New York University, who hopes to improve on his 64-11¾ shot put record, Igor Ter-Ovanesyan of Russia, who set the indoor broad jump record of 26-10 three weeks ago; Lt. Jack Yerman of the U.S. Army, who is after the 600 record of 1:09.3, and Bill Crothers of the University of Toronto who has been planning an assault on the 2:06 1,000-yard record of Peter Snell.

Nikula, who soared 16-8¾ three weeks ago in Finland—more than five inches better than any other vaulter in history—predicts he'll go at least 16-6 and maybe hit the magic 17-foot mark.

Census at Church

Recognizing that the Catholic population of New Paltz had kept pace with the growth of the village it was decided that a more up-to-date count of families and individuals was needed.

Accordingly, it has been announced that the past Sunday each parishioner entering St. Joseph's Church was handed a census card that was to be filled out and returned before the end of the month. A special box which was placed in the vestibule of the church during ensuing weeks would receive the filled in cards.

It was announced that the students of the State University were not required to register as parishioners since they are only temporary residents.

At the close of the voluntary census a report will be prepared for presentation to the parish. It is expected that the number of parishioners would have doubled since the last census.

Every family was impressed with the necessity of having their names on file at the rectory in case of a sick call or emergency. They were assured that the information on the card would be considered highly confidential and therefore a complete and candid response was required.

The informative nature of the census showing the rapidly growing number of families who had settled here will help the priests of the parish to know and serve their flock more efficiently in matters spiritual and temporal. Hence the whole hearted cooperation of the parish is requested to make the census a huge success.

Record in Dairy Products Is Set

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reported today that 1962 set new production records for such dairy products as ice cream and other frozen desserts, non-fat dry milk, cream cheese and creamed cottage cheese.

Cheese production was the second highest of record and butter output was the highest since 1943. But production of evaporated whole milk declined for the seventh consecutive year and was the smallest since 1937. Last year was the 11th straight year in which production of non-fat dry milk increased.

The time to do this is early in the hand, not when study will give away the fact that you hold some key card or cards.

West opened the deuce of spades on the old-fashioned gambit of attacking in his longest suit. South won East's jack with the king and stopped to plan his play of the hand.

West took advantage of the time given him to plan his defense. West was looking at three spade tricks and one club trick and wanted to pick up a fifth trick.

He decided that perhaps South would hold the exact high cards he did. In that case South could take five clubs, two hearts, one diamond and one spade, but South would not know where the ace of diamonds and king of hearts were and West must keep him in the dark.

South led a club to dummy's ten, played the ten of diamonds and rose with the king. West played his five as if he had not a care in the world.

Now South ran off dummy's clubs and played a second diamond, whereupon West was ready to take five tricks and South had lost the hand.

Friedman's Fate Up to Jurists On Ethics Count

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The fate of a jurist accused of unethical conduct rested today with a panel of six judges from the state's higher courts.

The Court on the Judiciary reserved decision Friday night after hearing final arguments in the case of Louis L. Friedman, a State Supreme Court justice in Brooklyn and a former Democratic state senator.

The court, handling its second case since it was created in 1947, has authority to remove Friedman from the bench.

Friedman, 56, is accused of obstructing a judicial investigation by withholding records of his brother and former law partner, M. Malcolm Friedman, during an inquiry into ambulance-chasing by lawyers in New York City. The records had been subpoened.

Friedman has denied the charges and has challenged the constitutionality of the Court on the Judiciary. He argued that the court procedure violates the U.S. Constitution because the tribunal serves both as prosecutor and judge.

Theodore Kiendl, Friedman's attorney, said the judge was willing to open the financial records to investigators at his office, but did not want to take them to the Brooklyn hall where the investigation was being held.

Kiendl contended that someone connected with the investigation was "leaking" confidential information to the newspapers and that Friedman did not want to be subjected to this kind of publicity.

The Court on the Judiciary comprises the chief judge and senior associate judge of the Court of Appeals and a justice from each of the four Appellate Divisions of State Supreme Court.

Heart Guardian

'Beeps' Painful But Reassuring

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — The machine was an electric sentinel that sometimes produced painful shocks, but its steady "beep" was the sound of life to a woman whose heart stopped five times.

"The Lord has been with me," said Mrs. Catherine Guntrup, 53, of Corning.

Stopped During Operation

She told newsmen Thursday at Binghamton General Hospital how open-heart massage, an electric machine and surgeons' skill kept her alive during and after surgery last October.

The woman's heart stopped while she was undergoing a gall bladder operation, said Dr. Jason K. Moyer, hospital medical director.

Opening the chest wall, surgeons quickly applied open-heart massage. The heart restarted. The operation was discontinued and Mrs. Guntrup was removed to a special care section of the hospital.

Then she met her electric guardian. Doctors attached to her heart a device called a Pacemaker. It "beeps" in conjunction with the heart when attached to a patient.

If the heart stops beating the machine automatically shoots 90 volts of electric current through the patient at the rate of 75 times a minute until the heart begins to beat again.

Four times during Mrs. Guntrup's eight-days in the hospital, the machine jolted her heart back to life.

Whole Body Quivers

"I wanted to hear it go," Mrs. Guntrup said of the machine, "because I felt it was responsible for my being alive. When you get a shock, it makes your whole body quiver, but after awhile I felt it wasn't so bad."

Back at work now at the Credit Bureau in Corning, which she operates with her husband, Wilfred, Mrs. Guntrup said:

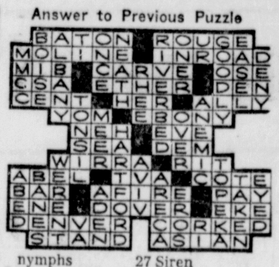

"I try not to think about it. I just go to work each day."

KERHONKSON NEWS

KERHONKSON—Kerhonkson Cub Scout Pack 22 committee will sponsor a food sale Saturday at Poppel's store from 10 a. m. until all goods are sold.

Pack 22 will hold its annual Blue and Gold family dinner Monday 6:15 p. m., at the Kerhonkson fire hall.

A Lincoln Day gala sponsored by the Town of Rochester Republican Club at the Pine Grove Hotel was reported a great success despite the inclement weather. About 100 attended the evening's program of dining, dancing and entertainment.

Mrs. John Lathrop entertained the West End Bridge Club at her home Thursday. Those present were the Mmes. Ferrand Messinger of Napanoch, Clifford Blair, Helen Schoonmaker, Millard Davis, Meredith Morgan and Arthur Chip.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Walpole of Ellenville, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Spada and Mrs. Frances McCauley were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Lathrop Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Schoonmaker Jr., left on Monday for a 10-day vacation in Puerto Rico.

Saturday, March 9, at 7:30 p. m., there will be a purim service which will be held at the Kerhonkson Synagogue. Noisemakers will be given to the children after which everyone will assemble in the center for a program put on by the Talmud Torah and junior youth group which will consist of a play entitled Nothing But the Truth," a purim farce written by Rita Levine and Norman Stillman. A package party will follow and refreshments will be served.

The pre-youth group of the Kerhonkson Jewish Community Center held their meeting Sunday afternoon and have decided to call themselves the Invisibles. At this meeeting they set the program for the following weeks: Feb. 24, bowling; March 10, no meeting; March 21, roller skating; March 24, arts and crafts; March 31, square dance. Any parents interested in helping with transportation are requested to contact Gail Gruenwald or Rabbi J. Socoloff.

Those who received their invitations and are planning to attend the Rochester Democratic buffet social should reply by Feb. 23.

Candice Waruch celebrated her birthday Feb. 20.

Brotherhood night was held Wednesday at the Kerhonkson Elementary School.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Conklin were the hosts Wednesday evening to the committee members of Cub Scout Pack 22.

Mission Backfires

HUDSON, N.Y. (AP) — Jesse Caldwell probably has some second thoughts about dogs being man's best friend.

Caldwell went to City Hall to check on a dog license and met a policeman. The policeman arrested him on a previously issued warrant charging him with third-degree assault.

Sure New Version Of Fair Exchange Will Meet Test

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The average family in a television comedy series, says writer-producer Cy Howard, "consists of four children, a mother who looks like Donna Reed and a father who is harmless and inoffensive, like a dentist who doesn't hurt."

All such series end the same, he adds. The daughter screams, "I'll kill myself if I don't get a new dress for graduation." The husband then chucks the wife under the chin and grins, "She's just like her mother." Fadeout.

Howard swam against this tide of conformity at the beginning of the 1962-63 season with a new show called "Fair Exchange." This one actually was new because it offered: An hour-long comedy; two casts and locales.

The idea was to show the intermixture of Anglo-American cultures. An American child went to England to live with a family as an exchange student; the English parents sent their child to live with the American family on the same basis.

The reviews were generally good; the ratings weren't. "Fair Exchange" looked like one of the season's earliest casualties.

It was indeed chopped off the air after 13 weeks. But networks sometimes behave in strange ways. CBS agreed to give the show another 13-week ride—if it could be cut down to a half-hour.

Howard and his parents producer, Desilu, agreed. The 50 per cent version returns to the air March 28.

I asked Howard how the scripts would adjust to the bobbed version.

"Better," he said. "Actually, we had a good 45-minute show. There was enough plot to maintain interest that long; the other 15 minutes was padding.

"Now we'll do exactly the same thing we did in the hour, but there will be less of it. It will be a tighter, better show."

Sees New Phase In Cuba Before Crisis Is Over

CANTON, N.Y. (AP) — David Leigh Guyer, a member of the United State mission to the United Nations, says the first phase of the Cuban crisis is over, but he adds there will be another phase before the crisis is over.

Guyer told a model U.N. Security Council at St. Lawrence University Friday night:

"One thing we can be sure of —there will be another phase of the Cuban thing before we're through."

He described as a "calculated effort to save face" the threat Friday by Soviet Defense Minister Rodion Malinovsky that a U.S. attack on Cuba would mean a third world war.

The threat was made to cover any withdrawal of Soviet troops from Cuba, Guyer said.

Guyer is an adviser on political and security affairs to the U.S. mission at the U.N.

Just in Case

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — Roberts' Rules of Order are fine, but members of the Utica Common Council also believe in the power of police procedure.

During a recent meeting, three squad cars of detectives and uniformed police were called to the council chambers "in case somebody gets rowdy."

Councilmen explained they were concerned spectators "might get out of hand" during discussion of community television.

Dies of Burns

HAMILTON, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Anna Perkins, 72, of Pine Woods, Madison County, died early today at Hamilton Community Hospital of burns suffered Feb. 14 in a fire that destroyed her home.

Her daughter, Mrs. Emily E. Burns, 50, perished in the fire. Both women were widows.

The fire started when a portable kerosene heater exploded as Mrs. Burns carried it upstairs.

Medicos Approve Increase in Blue Shield Charges

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP)—A recent decision of the Broome County Medical Society imposes a special charge upon Blue Shield insurance subscribers with incomes of more than $4,000 a year.

The society voted that, effective Feb. 1, patients in the $4,000-and-up income bracket must pay the difference between the alloted Blue Shield allowance and the doctor's standard fees.

The society's executive secretary, Michael W. McManus, said Friday that, despite a 37.5 per cent increase in rates paid by subscribers in the Central New York Blue Shield-Blue Cross insurance, some allowances to doctors had been lowered.

Fees for those who earn less than $4,000-a-year will continue as before, McManus said.

The society's action means, for example, that on routine hospital visits, where the standard fee is $5 and the Blue Shield allowance is $4.10, the patient who earns more than $4,000-a-year will be the diffference of 90 cents.

Business Week in Review

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Contradictory readings on the direction of the economy and business confounded pulsetakers during the week.

And if this added up to a muddy picture, there were few signs of haste among the economic doctors in Washington to clarify it by prescribing medicines urged by President Kennedy, notably income tax revision.

Buckle Down: Mansfield

Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., Senate majority leader, chided his colleagues for wasting time on secondary matters, and urged them to buckle down to legislating. Mansfield said six weeks had been lost.

Perhaps the brightest development occurred in steel, but even a smart rise in production for the second straight week in this basic industry had its shadowy side.

The pickup in mill activity, amounting to nearly 10 per cent in the last two weeks, was spurred by stockpiling of big users as a hedge against possible labor - management conflict this summer.

Inventory building now thus may produce a corresponding slackening in demand later on when the inventories are consumed.

Typical of the cross-currents was a General Motors decision to pile up a one-million-ton reserve of steel by July 30, coupled with announcement of an economy-spurring program to lay out $1.3 billion for plants, equipment and special tools.

Price-Cutting Disquieting

A round of price-cutting on stainless steel products touched off by U.S. Steel was another disquieting factor.

Another note of optimism injected by disclosure of record 1962 earnings by American Telephone & Telegraph Co. was offset somewhat by declines reported by U.S. Rubber Co. and other companies.

The stock market wobbled uncertainly, but gave ground most of the time.

During the week, sales on the exchange fell to a total of 16,945,955 from 22,608,490 a week earlier. Bond sales on the stock exchange for the latest week also dropped, totaling $21,745,000 — par value—against $33,591,200 the week before.

Personal Income Up

Personal income rose a bit to a rate of $452.4 billion a year in January, but only with the help of a $2-billion disbursement in GI life insurance dividends, a one-shot influence.

On the disappointing side was word that housing starts in January dropped 15 per cent from December to an annual rate of 1,242,000. Previously, retail sales and factory payrolls were reported down.

In other bad news, the government officially estimated last year's unfavorable balance of international payments at $2.2 billion, a good deal higher level than had been hoped for in early 1962.

And automobile production, a particularly buoying influence in the economy for more than a year, was slated during the week for the lowest level since last September during the 1963 model changeover.

Newman Foundation To Sponsor Lectures

The recently formed Cardinal Newman Foundation of New York has announced a series of Lenten lectures for the Catholic layman.

The lectures will be held six Thursday evenings, Feb. 28 through April 4, at the Madison Room of the Hotel Biltmore, New York City. The registrar, Newman Institute, Earle Hall, Columbia University, New York 27, New York may be contacted for further information.

The foundation is the outgrowth of a variety of activities of the Associated Newman Alumni of New York. The lecture-discussion series is the first of its activities and will serve to advise the public of its formation.

Movie Is Secondary

BALTIMORE (AP)—"The movie wasn't very good, but it really doesn't matter," a Negro coed said as she came out of the Northwood Theater.

The theater—scene of six days of mass demonstrations and mass arrests—quietly opened its doors to Negroes Friday.

Twenty-three well-dressed Morgan State College students bought tickets to see "In Search of the Castaways" and walked unimpeded through the carpeted lobby.

Cites Deer Kill By Dog Packs in Six-County Area

The Division of Fish and Game at 105 Dutchess Turnpike Poughkeepsie, New York today revealed that packs of wild and domestic dogs have been reported doing heavy damage to the deer herds throughout Dutchess, Putnam, Ulster, Orange, Rockland and Sullivan Counties. A total of 20 deer killed by dogs have been verified by department biologists and conservation officers in the last two days. The actual kill by dogs is undoubtedly substantially higher. Owners and harborers of dogs are urgently requested to keep their dogs under control during this critical snow period.

All authorized department personnel have been instructed to destroy dogs seen pursuing or killing deer. Cooperation of other authorized law enforcement agencies has been requested. It would be appreciated if any person observes dogs pursuing or killing deer if they would immediately contact their local conservation officer.

Snow conditions presently appear to be in favor of the dogs as the deer flounder and tire rather easily in the deep snow at this season of the year. Numerous calls from the public have been received and answered concerning dogs killing deer. The cooperation of the public in keeping their animals under control would be very much appreciated.

Priest Proposes Religious Study Credit in School

HAMILTON, N.Y. (AP) — A Roman Catholic priest was at odds today with the local school board over the academic merit of religious instruction in this small college community in Upstate New York.

The Rev. John Carey, pastor of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, contends that academic credit should be given to high school pupils for religious instruction at his church during school hours.

But the school board rejected last Monday the priest's request for a quarter credit per semester toward graduation. The vote was 3-2.

This year, 47 pupils would be involved.

One Protestant member of the board joined the lone Catholic member in voting to grant the request, which had the backing of the State Education Department.

James Jones, the board president and a Baptist, cast the tie-breaking vote. Jones contended the board would have no control over the character and content of the instruction.

"Lack of approval does not indicate the instruction is unworthy," Jones asserted, however.

Father Carey commented:

"I have no control over the content either. I just teach what Jesus Christ taught 1900 years ago."

Shirts, Coats Taboo Even During Winter

GREENWICH, N.Y. (AP)—It's not a grudge against the garment industry, mind you. It's just that Robert Chambers, 74, doesn't wear shirts and coats winter or summer, indoors or out.

Shoes, trousers and a sleeveless undershirt do nicely, says Chambers. And that applies whether temperature is 22 below zero or in the 90s.

"What's the sense of wearing them if they don't do me any good," says the robust ex-plumber who lives in this Washington County village.

"A doctor told me people catch cold by going in and out of doors, taking clothes on and off. He said I'm better off."

When the occasion demands, however, Chambers will don shirts and socks.

But he bade farewell to his last overcoat—Army issue—after World War I, ye says.

Did he ever get sick?

Sure, he replied. Minor colds have plagued him at times. The cure for them, he contends, is a sitting session in the fresh, frigid air.

He claims that he has not been in a hospital since 1949, when he was treated for mumps.

"I've saved hundreds of dollars on clothes and laundry bills," he added. "I've stayed healthy—I'll probably live to be 100."

Relics Are Lost In Upstate Fire

WILMINGTON, N.Y. (AP) — A house that was said to contain a valuable collection of Renaissance and Medieval relics was swept by fire Friday. The loss was estimated at from $50,000 to $75,000.

Roy Andrews, the owner, suffered cuts and burns but did not require hospital treatment. Two firemen also suffered minor injuries.

The 2½-story frame dwelling was located at the foot of Whiteface Mountain.

Fire Chief Bruce Hare, who estimated the loss, said a gust of wind apparently rushed down a chimney and upset an oil stove used for heating.

One pound of uranium 235 is about the size of a walnut, but it produces as much energy as 1,500 tons of coal.
